and visitors to the spacious hall in the lumber exchange are now informed that they are in the "people's headquarters" and that the plumed knight of reciprocity is the people's candidate, the choice of all factions and the special candidate of none. But in the midst of all this enthusiasm for the man from Maine it must not be inferred that the Harrison men are dismayed. Far from it. They are fully as confident today as they were yesterday and this confidence seems justified by the fact that, despite the extravagant claims of opposition party leaders, two-thirds of the delegates who have thus far arrived in the city are outspoken for the president's nomination. It may be that all this is but the result of chance or that the Harrison delegates are being summoned to the scene to affect Blaine's demonstration, but, however this may be the strength of the president among the very men who are to make the nomination next week is a source of much satisfaction to the Harrison people, and does not afford any gratification to their opponents.

General Alger's Position.

That General Alger is at heart for Blaine

That General Alger is at heart for Blaine and that his state delegation is now for Blaine for the presidency and Alger for the Blaine for the presidency and Alger for the vice presidency, no one any longer doubts. If there had been any skepticism upon this point it was removed tonight by the distribution of a circular from the Michigan headquarters bearing portraits of Blaine and Harrison. The circular reads at length upon the reasons which make Blaine's candidacy necessary.

The News from Blaine. A press dispatch from Washington, stating that Secretary Blaine had informed a representative of the Associated Press that representative of the Associated Press that he would write no more letters and make no further announcements prior to the convention, were received with rejoicings by the Blaine men this evening, and they declare now that nothing can prevent his nomination. Indeed, the general effect of this announcement of the secretary of state has been to add enthusiasm to the Blaine movement and inspire the movement with increased confidence. Chairman Clarkson was standing in the doorway of his room at the West hotel, talking to an Associated Press reporter, when he received the message saying that Blaine had stated to the Associated Press that he would write no more letters about the presidency. "When was it sent?" said he. "This afternoon."

"What do you think its effect will be?" was the response query put to Clarkson. "I think it will nominate him." Clarkson.

"What do you think its effect will be?"
was the response query put to Clarkson.
"I think it will mominate him," Clarkson replied very promtly, "that is my opinion. We think we are going to nominate him."
"Will anybody nominate Blaine, and if so who?" was asked.
"I do not suppose he will be formally placed in nomination, but I cannot tell now what course may be decided upon. There is no organized effort in any way for Blaine. No one is organizing a movement, but it springs from the American people who are urging him."

Arranging for the Convention.

Arranging for the Convention. The republican national committee will begin its session tomorrow morning. On it falls the work of arranging all the de-tails for the conduct of the convention. Tomorrow the work of making up the roll begins. It is the duty of the national committee to make up a temporary roll of the delegates entitled to admission to or the delegates entitled to admission to the convention.

The roll of delegates will then be called, and where seats are contested each delegate will be given a hearing. There are more contests this year than ever before. In more than eighty cases two persons are fighting for the same seat. The south furnishes by far the largest number of these disputes. In some of them the seats of entire state delegations are at issue. The most bitter northern contest comes of entire state delegations are at issue.

The most bitter northern contest comes from the Fort Wayne, Ind., district, where McDonald, a Blaine man, declares the Harrison delegates were not elected. He will be here to make a contest with two hundred followers to back it up. From the District of Columbia Perry Carson and Andy Gleason have on a fight with Calvin Chase and Simon Wolf. If these men were not contestants the old-timers would think something was wrong.

As to the Platform.

The platform in which the republican party will present to the country the is-sues of which is appeals to the voters for their suffrage in favor of the standard bearer to be selected by the convention, is a subject of earnest consideration among the leaders who have a record at Minneapolis. Many of them believe the platform is as important as the naming of the man to head the ticket. On the platform there is substantial unanimity, except to two or three planks. The silver plank is one which will receive more careful consideration to meet the divulgent views prevailing in different sections, and the precise extent to which declarations shall be made relative to federal elections is also a matter on which the delegates differ. A number of the most important men now here, including many delegates who are likely to be chosen to represent the states on the committee on resolutions, have been consulted by the representatives of the Associated Press, and as a result the principal features of the platform can now be given. Its keynote will be "American" throughout, and in everything.

THE BONDS SOLD WELL.

Albany Will Soon Be Able to Go to Work on Albany Will Soon Be Able to Go to Work on Her Waterworks.

Albany, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—The waterworks bonds, which the city some time since voted to issue, have been sold. N. W. Harris & Co., of Chicago, get the entire issue of $100,000, and the price and entire issue of $100,000, and the price and terms of the sale practically give the city par value for the bonds. The finance committee of the city council figured all day yesterday over the bids that were opened on Wednesday night, and after much parleying at its meeting last night the council verted to reject all the bids but often. on Wednesday night, and after much parleying at its meeting last night the council voted to reject all the bids, but afterwards reconsidered and unanimously accepted the bid of N. W. Harris & Co. Harris & Co.'s bid was the best all round bid, and by accepting it the city gets net $99,208.33 for the $100,000 of bonds. Under the terms of the contract with Harris & Co. the city draws the money as it needs it, beginning with, say $25,000 on July 1st, and will get the benefit of the accrued interest from the date of issue, June 1st, to the date of actual receipt of the money in the installments agreed upon. The acceptance of this bid is generally conceded to have been the best thing that the council could have done under the circumstances, as it removes all doubt and uncertainty, avoids all possible delay in getting to work on the waterworks, and is within a few hundred dollars of what could have been renlized for the bonds under the most favorable circumstances, if the sale had been deferred and new negotiations opened. The city attorney was instructed to draw up a contract with the representative of Harris & Co., who is in the city, covering the bond transaction.

A NEW STATE Is Proposed by Mr. Washington of Tennessee.

In Time to Have a Voice in Presidential Election.

THE SUBTREASURY BILL DEBATED.

It Will Be Given a Place Immediately Following the Appropriation Bills.
Other Capital News.

Washington, June 3.—(Special.)—Mr. Washington, of Tennessee, went around the house today with a paper asking for signa-tures. He wants to see if he can get a sufficient number of democrats with him to war-rant the venture he has in view. He pro-poses to make a motion next Monday, suspension day, to suspend the rules and put upon its passage the bill providing for the admission of the democratic territory of New Mexico into the union as a state. He met with such encouragement that there is not much doubt of the venture being tried. Mr. Washington thinks it would be success ful although it would take a two-thirds vote to accomplish the end in view.

The Subtreasury Bill.

The subtreasury bill is going to be given a hearing this session. The democrats from those rections where alliance principles are strong have been ss'ring from time to time that the bill be reported back from the ways and means committee, and Mr. Living-ston, of Georgia, has been notably active in this direction. He and the others have found no very great difficulty in their way, so the committee on rules has decided that after the appropriation bills are out of the way the subtreasury scheme shall have the floor for three days. The debate will doubtless be a lively one.

Mr. Livingston's Work.

Mr. Livingston today appeared before the house committee on banking and currency, and made argument in favor of two bills. One is the bill providing for the issuing of money to the states upon the bonds of the latter. The other is the bill pending for the repeal of the tax upon the issues of state banks and for the repeal of the law which prohibits national banks from lending money on real estate. Mr. Livingston thinks that the committee will report a bill repealing the tax on the issues of state banks.

Representative Barnes Compton, of Maryland, returned from a visit to his home today. Yesterday the primary, from which will be evolved the Maryland delegation to Chicago, was held. Mr. Compton today said to The Constitution correspondent that the voting yesterday showed, beyond a doubt, that not only will that delegation be for Mr. Gorman, but that it will be absolutely in his control. He can use it this way "And," added Mr. Compton, slyly, "there is considerable difference between Mr. Gorman's delegation and the democratic delegation from the state from which Mr. Cleveland hails, is there not?" Mr. Moses Will Be His Lieutenant. When Mr. Hatch, in a few days, endeavors to have the house take up the anti-option bill, Mr. Moses, of Georgia, will be his lieutenant in the fight.

OVER SEVEN BILLIONS INCREASE In Assessed Valuation of Property in the United States During Ten Years.

Washington, June 3.—The census bureau today issued a bulletin on the subject of assessed valuation of property in the United States in 1890. The bulletin shows that the assessed value of all property, excepting certain specified states, has increased from $16,902,993,543, in 1880 to $24,651,585,465 in 1890, an increase during the decade of $7,748,501,922 or 45.84 per cent. Should it be found upon the completion of the inquiry in relation to the true value of all property in the United States that the same relations exists in 1890 between the assessed valuation and true valuation as existed in 1880, the absolute wealth of the United States according to the eleventh census, may be estimated at $63,648,000,000 or more than $1,000 per capita, as against $514 per capita in 1860, $780 per capita in 1870, and $870 per capita in 1880. Owing, however, to the fact that in some states, property is assessed at its full value and in others at only a fraction of its value, comparisons of the wealth of states is quite impossible. Lists of all kinds of taxable property vary greatly in different states.

MR. CARTER'S SCHEME

. MR. CARTER'S SCHEME For Converting Cotton Seed Oil Into India

Rubber.

Savannah, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—A real estate deal was made last week which may mean millions for Savannah. Captain savannah, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—A real estate deal was made last week which may mean millions for Savannah. Captain D. G. Purse has sold to J. G. Carter, et this city, a tract of ninety-seven and a half acres of land fronting on the river, adjoining Greenwich park on the south. The price paid, it is understood, was very fair and mutually satisfactory to both buyer and seller. Mr. Carter is an artist, with a studio at No. 135 York street, having come south about two years ago for his health. For a year past he has been experimenting with cotton seed oil, with the idea of converting it into a solid, which will answer all the purposes of India rubber—indeed, be a substitute for it. He has discovered a process by which this can be quickly and cheaply done and in large quantities, and if the samples exhibited by him are fair specimens of the results, he has a fortune within his grasp which may exceed that of Goodyear when he perfected his process for vulcanizing rubber.

Mr. Carter was seen at his home by a Morning News reporter. He is just back from Boston, where he exhibited samples of his manufacture to the leading manufacurers of rubber goods of that city. He also explained his process to them to a certain extent without giving away his secret. They were so well satisfied that they immediately offered to put up all the money necessary for its manufacture and to take all that he could produce at remunerative prices. Mr. Carter produced several specimens of his manufacture. One was a small disk about one and a half inches in diameter and one-quarter of an inch in thickness. To all appearances it was as genuine rubber as was ever manufactured. It was only 50 per cent pure rubber, Mr. Carter said, and the other 50 per cent was originally cotton seed oil. This specimen was soft and pliable. He produced another specimen several times larger than the first, very hard and tough, having the appearance of a quality of rubber largely used for commercial purposes. This, Mr. Carter said, contained only 9 per cent of pure r

As the pure rubber costs 67 cents a pound by the ton and the substitute can be manufactured for less than 20 cents a pound it would seem that there is room for considerable profit. The character of the process, Mr. Carter said, is a secret known to him only, and which he will continue to keep. He arrived at it after twenty years of experiment with various olls for the purpose of reducing them to solids and to ascertain their value for varnish and other products. He first discovered a process after beginning his experiments by which cotton seed oil could be made available for a high class of varnish, a use to which manufacturers have as yet been unable to put it to any extent. His first trip to Boston was with the idea of establishing a varnish factory at Savannah, but discovering the great demand for a substitute for rubber, and having this idea already in view, he returned and perfected it. He is now satisfied of his ability to produce this substitute in any quantities.

and perfected it. He is now satisfied of his ability to produce this substitute in any quantities.

Mr. Carter has not the least doubt of the immediate success of his enterprise. He has secured a large site for manufacturing purposes and will immediately invest about fifteen thousand dollars in preparations to begin the manufacture of his article. This is more in the nature of an experiment and to enable him to control its manufacture. Next fall he expects to bring down the Boston manufacturers interested, and, after having 'horoughly satisfied them with the practicability of the enterprise, to begin at once putting in an immense manufacturing plant, costing several hundred thousand dollars. The entire capital will be furnished by Boston capitalists, and not a dollar will be enlisted in Savannah.

Mr. Carter's express stipulation is that the plant, with all the factories and warehouses, is to be located at Sayannah and all the work is to be done here. It will be seen what this means for Savannah if the enterprise is successful. The cotton seed oil will be purchased from the Southern Oil Company at Savannah. Should the enterprise reach the nagnitude expected its consumption of oil would have a very perceptible effect upon the market. Mr. Carter claims for his invention that it makes cotton seed oil available for varnish and lard.

TOPICS OF TRADE. Veekly Review of Business the Past Week by Dun & Co.

New York, June 3.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says that the tone of commercial reports from various parts of the country indicates that business has, to some extent, improved.

More favorable weather has helped both retail and wholesale trade in many quar ters and has materially improved crop pros-pects at the west, while a little improvement in the price of cotton has operated as a stimulus to business at the south. There has been no difficulty or disturbance in the money market and the volume of currency money market and the volume of currency in circulation has increased during the month of May about six million five hundred thousand dollars, amounting to $1,620,000 on June 1st.

Collections throughout the country are on the whole better than of late and fairly satisfactory, and excepting the speculative corner at Chicago, there has been no especial excitement of any kind in business. Wheat has declined half a cent, western receivts being unusually large, though export Wheat has declined half a cent, western receipts being unusually large, though export in cotton, in the belief that the acreage will be much diminished, has helped the speculators to advance the price one-fourth of a cent, and transactions have been moderately light. Nevertheless the stock of cotton in the country continues far beyond the record of the previous years and there is every reason to believe that even a great reduction in the yield will scarcely reduce the aggregate supply for the year below the quantity usually required for consumption.

The iron business shows considerable increase in transactions, though there is as much complaint as ever of low prices. Both at Pittsburg and Philadelphia pig iron is weaker and there are doubts whether the bottom has been reached, though at Chicago the market is considerably stronger and the authorities hold that the stocks of pig iron in the country are now considerably lower than they have been.

authorities hold that the stocks of pig fron in the country are now considerably lower than they have been. The market for bars is weak at the lowest figures ever known and the new demand for structural iron is not quite as large as has been expected. At Philadelphia there is an increase in the sale of iron and hardware is quite active.

At Pittsburg finished products of iron and steel are in good demand, the prices are the lowest ever known and the glass trade is fairly active. fairly active.

Business is still retarded by bad weather at Little Rock and Memphis, improved a little at Nashville, but very dull at Savannah.

Cotton strengthens at New Orleans and them is a better feeling in pusiness general.

WILL MEET AND CONSULT-A Call for New York's Delegates to Chicago to Meet Next Monday Night. New York, June 3.—The Post publishes a dispatch from Albany saying that a call was issued today for a meeting of the February delegates to the Chicago convention, which in some instances has been February delegates to the Chicago convention, which in some instances has been alleged to be a state committee call issued by Chairman Murphy, and in others to be a call for a meeting of the national delegates, issued by Senator Hill, the first for Monday night and the second for Tuesday, at the Hoffman house—is in reality an invitation to the seventy-two delegates and seventy-two alternates to the Chicago convention elected in February to meet at the Hoffman house, New York, on next Monday night, at 8 o'clock. The call says simply, "To consult on matters pertaining to the delegates' work at Chicago." It is signed by Edward Murphy, Jr.

Electing an Executive Committee Savannah, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Mectings were held in all the districts of Chatham county tonight to elect a democratic county executive committee. Cut and dried tickets were rushed through by politicians in a couple of districts before the voters had a chance to assemble, and as a result there is great dissatisfaction and an inclination to disregard whatever the committee does.

MITCHELL MEN WON.

Nominations Made by the Convention at

MITCHELL'S TALK TO THE DELEGATES He Says There Is No Necessity for a Third Party,

AND, THEREFORE, DOES NOT FAVOR IT,

Several Candidates Entered for State Treasurer and a Close Contest.
The State Ticket Nominated.

Tampa, Fla., June 3.-Just before mid-Samuel J. Turnbull, of Jefferson county, first president and Fred T. Myers, of Leon, second vice president. An immediate adjournment was confidently expected by nearly all of the delegates, but the leaders of the Mitchell faction had gained an advantage and began to "press their luck." Dr. J. C. Pelot, of Manate county, moved the adoption of the two thirds rule and General A. W. Gilchrist, of De Soto, moved to amend by substituting the word "majority." Both made speeches on the motion and debate propeeded for some time, being constantly interrupted by motions to lay on the table, to adjourn, etc., but the two-thirds rule finally prevailed by an overwhelming majority. This was another advantage gained for Mitchell, and his backers ressed it all the harder.

It was now 1 o'clock a. m., but Mitchell's cohorts, many of whom had not slept for forty-eight hours, did not propose to quit the wigwam till their man had been pushed to the front and nominated.. R. S. Burford, of Marion, moved that nominations for candidate for governor now begin and the opponents of Mitchell made a strong effort to stave off the inevi-table by a motion to adjourn and other dilatory tactics, and the alliance pushed for the adoption of a platform, before the ticket, or any part of it, was named; but the Mitchell current was too strong to be stemmed and on the roll call of counties motion to adjourn was lost by a vote of 241 to 175.

The roll call of the counties then began or The roll call of the counties then began on gubernatorial nominations. Dr. Crawford's friends announced that they would not place his name in nomination for governor, but afterwards would urge him for secretary of state. Crawford has been Mitchell's strongest competitor and it was evident that the opposition was rapidly going to pieces.

county, took the platform and in an eloquent speech nominated Henry L. Mitchell, of Hillsboro. While Mr. Carter was in the midst of an eloquent eulogy of his candidate, the electric light went out, but it was explained that it would soon be turned on again and the convention proceeded.

was explained that it would soon be turned on again and the convention proceeded by the light of lanterns.

Wild cheers for Mitchell followed, the band played and Mr. Carter concluded his speech. The call of counties continued and one by one the opposing delegations fell into line for Mitchell. No other name was presented to the convention. The nomination line for Mitchell. No other name was presented to the convention. The nomination of Mitchell was made unanimous by a rising vote amid wild enthusiasm and the strains of "Dixie." Judge Mitchell was sent for and conducted to the platform by two of his former opponents and made an excellent typeech of acceptance. He denied the charge that he was the tool of the railroads and outlined briefly his policy in the state affeirs if elected. railroads and outlined briefly his policy in state affairs if elected. He said:
"I am no third party man, and don't believe there is any necessity for such a party, as the democratic party is strong enough to control our destinies."

He was pronounced in favor of the free coinage of silver and in closing asserted his allegiance to the people, to the farmers and to all.

to all.

"If you elect me governor I will make you the best governor I can. Against those who have opposed me, I have no word to say. To those who have supported me, I thank you, one and all." The convention at 2:45 o'clock a. m. adjourned, and the populace unhitched the horses from Judge Mitchell's carriage and hauled him through the streets to his home.

carriage and hauled him through the streets to his home.

The convention met again at 11 o'clock a. m. and R. Fenwick Taylor, of Alachua, for justice of supreme court; Dr. John L. Crawford, of Wakulla, for secretary of state; W. B. Lamar, of Jefferson, for attorney general, and W. B. Bloxham, of Leon, for comptroller, were all renominated by acclamation.

The committee on Chicago delegates is now in session.

Four Candidates for Treasurer. The first contest of the day on the nomination of state officers commenced when four names were successively presented for state treasurer—State Senator J. F. Baya, of Columbia county; State Senator John D. Pirrong, of Calhoun; C. B. Collins, of Marion, and E. J. Triary, of Dunity of Marion val, the incumbent appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of F. J. Pons.

On the second ballot Pirrong's name was withdrawn. Collins had 198; Triary, 134; Baya, 691-2; blank, 41-2.

Mrs. Hardin Goes Back to the Man Who Is Willing to Forgive Her.

Anniston, Ala., June 3.—(Special.)—G. W. Hardin, of Juliette, Ga., whose wife eloped with his brother, Charley, a week ago, and who was caught here yesterday, while her paramour escaped, has been heard from. A telegram was received from the injured husband by Policeman Glesson this afternoon, directing him to sell the horse and wagon which had been appropriated and used by the runaway couple, and if Mrs. Hardin was willing to return home to buy her a railroad ticket and remit the balance of the proceeds of the sale. This was done and Mrs. Hardin, with her child, left tonight for home and husband. by acclamation at the close of the first ballot.

There were two candidates for commissioner of agriculture—L. B. Wombwell, of Jackson, the incumbent, and E. A. Wilson, of Lake. The latter was withdrawn on the second ballot, and Wombwell's nomination was made unanimous.

The only new men in the state nominations are Sheat; and Collins. The latter is a very prominent allianceman. Both had the solid support of the alliance. The ticket is generally acceptable to the anti-Mitchell men, who rejoice, especially at the defeat of Triary.

The general committee on platform and resolutions met this morning and organized, with Long, of Marion, chairman, and Barr, of Levy, as secretary. A subcommittee of eight will formulate a platform for the consideration of the full committee. Of these eight committeemen, six are alliancemen.

The Platform-

The Platform.

The committee on platform reported a very voluminous document, embracing twelve planks, before it touched on state affairs. The second plank demands continued liberal appropriations for southern rivers and harbors. The third promises legislation for the relief of the agricultural classes. The fourth denounces the McKinley tariff bill.

NOW, WE'LL HAVE IT.

MR. GLADSTONE IN EXCELLENT HEALTH.

and Has Mapped Out His Programme for His Scotch Campaign-Other Foreign Gossip of Interest.

London, June 8.—(Copyright, 1892, by The New York Associated Press.)—The The New York Associated Press.)—The last session of the present parliament virtually closed today. The desire of a section of the cabinet, strongly supported by Mr. Chamberlain and the unionist party, to pass the Irish local government, so that they would be able to go before their constituencies with their Irish pledges redeemed, has failed to prevail against the general exigencies. It is doubtful if there is life enough left in parliament to dispose of the small remaining business, the members all hurrying to their constituents and bers all hurrying to their constitu not intending to return. The radicals have decided not to oppose the passing of esti-mates which will be voted in the desultory fashion in which millions are usually vot it the fag end of the session.

Douglasville, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Never before in the history of Georgia was a woman the chosen orator of a commencement occasion. The Douglasville college furnishes matter for a new page in Georgia's history, and Mrs. Dr. W. H. Felton figures as an old character, but in a new role. role.

She accepted and nobly filled an invitation hitherto given to men only, that was to address the graduating class of the Donglasville college Thursday afternoon. She was introduced to her Douglasville audience by President J. H. Calloway.

"A Child of Grandmother Eve—a Female-or, for Thy More Sweet Understanding, Woman," was her theme, which was replete with practical, yet prettily rounded phrases, abounding in pathetic appeals for higher education for females, leading out into the vocations that woman can be fitted to fill, and positions she would fill with honor. The queen will curtail her stay at Balmoral and will return to Windsor on June 22d, in order to avoid the necessity of the ministers' travels to Scotland to tender their resignations.

The Contest Begun.

The formalities of the dissolution of parliament are certain to occur before June 25th, and the electoral contest has already commenced. Mr. Chamberlain has gone to Birmingham, and will not return during the present parliament. The bulk of Irish members have left Westminster for Ireland. Election agents are busy arranging meetings throughout the kingdom. The date of opening Gladstone's Midlothian campaign is not yet fixed. His idea of addressing small meetings from village to village has been abandoned, and instead he will address three great meetings—one at Edinburgh, another at West Calder, and a third at Dalkeith.

to fill, and positions she would fill with honor.

She graphically pictured the unsatisfied longings of woman's heart, longings which she dare not own, longings whose first faint breath is crushed by man, because he thinks "obey" is the biggest word in the Bible, and forever holds up poor little Eve as her fallen example, forgetting that she was tempted by something more than human, and that he fell by human.

She urged the females on to higher, nobler actions, holding the badge of nobility out to every true woman; and woman, with her grand probabilities and her grander possibilities, will be the heroine of the future to meet your herd in the fields of literature, in professions, in government, in anything she chooses. But as it is now, we women Mr. Gladstone in Good Health.

Mr. Gladstone is in capital health, but a great speech nowadays leaves him almost prostrated. In his letter to the trades council appointing June 16th for an interview, Mr. Gladstone, for the first time, complains of deafness, and he asks that the deputations sent to him be few in number. His eyesight, too, seems to be failing, for recently he had to ask Mr. Morley to read a document for him in parliament. Mr. Gladstone's face-about on the eight-hours question, bidding Schnadhorst to catch the labor vote, and his swallowing the wholprogressive programme of the London county council, receives scathing treatment in the columns of the conservative papers, which regard this as a new instance of his characteristic opportunism.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., June 3.—(Special.)—Last night about 10 o'clock Tuscaloosa was startled by an explcsion that caused windows to quiver and buildings to shatter.

The closing exercises of the Central Female college were being held in the concert hall of the college building. A very large crowd was in attendance. The exercises were approaching the end. All was silence in the hall, when the persons seated nearest the windows saw a flame shooting upward, and immediately following there was a terrific shock. The building shook to its very foundation. The rattle of the glass falling added to the horror of the situation. Women and children fainted, men trembled and for a time it seemed there would be a starting Coolhadde was calved the second. Liberal election funds, already swollen by large contributions from wealthy liberals, desirous of political promotion, have received an unexpected accession in the labou interest. A contribution comes in directly from Andrew Carnegie, the American iron manufacturer, who thus puts to practical test his principle that wealth should be used for the benefit of the people. A difficulty, however, has arisen as to which of the genuine labor candidates is entitled to benefits. The McCarthyites are now completing their election programme. The whole of the lifty-five sitting members will seek re-election and all of the Parnellite Women and children fainted, men trembled and for a time it seemed there would be a panic. Cool-headed men calmed the crowd, and after the reaction quiet was restored, and the exercises were continued.

The explosion was caused by the firing of a dynamite cartridge about fifty yards from the college. Two young men were the guilty parties. Today they were arrested and gave bond for their appearance at court. They disclaim any intention of malice, but say they intended it as a farewell shot in honor of the closing of the school. It came very near resulting seriously. In fact a number of ladies are prostrated today as a result of the severe explosion. Persons living twenty miles from Tuscaloosa felt the shock.

The accouchement of Mrs. Montague, who is serving a term of imprisonment for killing her own child, and who was removed from London jail to Dublin today, is expected about the last week in June. She was allowed to travel to Dublin in her own clothes, in a second-class carriage. She complained against being subjected to so long a journey in her present condition. Her husband's appeal for her release has been rejected.

Albany, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Henry Mitchell, a well-to-do famer of Lee county, was in the city yesterday, and told of the doings of an imported preacher from the north, by the name of Kenny, who was recently placed in charge of a church at Cordele, one at Red Bone, in Lee county, and another in another ection of the country.

Kenny has been actively engaged since his pastorate began in preaching social equality to those of his members who were weak enough to listen to him, but this information coming to Mr. Mitchell, he traveled to see Kenny, and asking him if he had been preaching social equality among the races, and receiving an affirmative answer, Mitchell then laid the law down to him, and threatened to throw him out of the pulpit at Red Bone on the second Sunday in June, his regular appointment, if he attempted to preach there.

Mr. Mitchell is a member of this church, and he says he does not mean to see it longer profaned by the presence of a social equality scoundrel. Contesting Seats at Minneapolis.

He denied having any such intention or having been requested to do so, or that there was any disagreement between him and the management. While he did not say so, some of his friends do say that the rumors were circulated here by enemies of the traffic manager, who calculated on their doing him an injury. The management seems to be eminently satisfied with Major Shellman's methods and the success he is achieving.

MINSING EXERCISES AT THE SCHOOLS

Attract Many Prominent People to the Temples of Education.

THE DAY WITH THE SCHOLARS

From One End of the City to the Other. All the Buildings Visited-The Honor Pupils for 1892.

' Atlanta was never prouder of her splen did public schools than yesterday. Never did the city have better cause to be proud of them than was made evident with the closing exercises of 1892. It was a day to be remembered, and one that will be remembered by all the friends of education who flocked to the various departments in the several buildings to see and hear the examinations and exhibitions by the pupils.

The evidences of excellence and thoroughness in every branch were per-haps more marked than ever before; the drawings were more artistic, the music better and the general operation of the school system more regular and more satisfactory than has ever been experienced before in the history of Atlanta.

The lesson of the day was this: The youth of Atlanta, the flower and hope of the city, is in the guidance of safe hands. This department of Atlanta's government is at least seame.

is at least secure.

There is one feature of the school system that has undergone particular imof music in charge of Professor Davis.

All in all, Atlanta can easily lay claim to the best system of public schools; the most progressive and competent officers and teachers, the best organized classes to judge from yesterday's examina-s the brightest children in those Walker Street School.

Walker street school, presided over by Professor L. M. Landrum, is the largest in the city. The rooms yesterday were handsomely decorated with flowers, and the blackboards ornamented with excellent drawings. The oral examinations were passed with unusual credit, and the parents generally were delighted with the year's work

A large crowd thronged the building, commencing to gather at half-past 8 o'clock and remaining until the exercises were over, at 1 o'clock.

The programmes arranged by the different grades were delightfully carried out, and were frequently interspersed with applause.

The special feature of the exercises in the eighth grade, of which Miss Battle is teacher, was the reading of original compositions. They were characterized by unusual excellence, and were listened to with marked attention. The full programme

Andrews 96. The Revenue of the Reven

The seventh and eighth grades had a joint session. They were called to order promptly at 9 o'clock by the president of the H. R. Echols Literary Society and then followed a most interesting programme. It consisted largely of dialogues, readings, recitations and concert work. With the exception of the Delsartean exercise the work was entirely of an intellectual character.

Among those worthy of special mention in the eighth grade were Misses White, Ackerman, Askew, Eiseman and Alexander. Also Masters Fred Scott, Byrom and Bippus. In the seventh grade Misses Lowry, Porter, Andrew, Miller, Harmond Cox and Wallace Boyd and Jim Scrutchin. The boards were covered in beautiful crayon work and on the wells were an Clarke, and reflected credit upon their teachers.

One of the most interesting features in this room was a reading by Miss Evelyn Austell, of the sixth class. Master Earl Morrow gave a violin solo that was well received. All the recitations were good and notably those of Miss Sallie Cooper, Miss Flora Holland, Miss Ada Respess and Master Albert Cox. The boards in this room also gave evidence of the marked proficiency of the pupils in the use of crayon. And the singing of two-part songs at sight was a surprise to the audience.

Junior Grades. On the first floor the order was different. Each grade remained in its own room till recess, when, at a signal from the principal, the junior grades filed into the senior rooms, and their exercises were conducted as on the upper floor.

The third and fourth grades were presided over by Misses Muse and Bryson, who showed wonderful tact in controlling the 120 girls and boys entrusted to their keeping.

the 120 girls and boys entrusted to their keeping.

Some of the prettiest work of the school in physical culture was shown in this room. It furnished the necessary variety to the school exercises to make them pleasant. Pupils deserving of special mention from these rooms were Misses Ada Byrd, Sallie Waldo, Susie McClellan and Rhae Schlesinger: Masters Robert Hemphill, George Barker and Fred Disbro and many others.

Here the lessons in drawing had been well taught, and the boards did not suffer by contrast with the higher upstairs work. The Little Tots.

Mrs. Williams and Miss Annie Payne had the first and second grades in charge, and if the foundation is not well laid in Calhoun it is not the fault of those who lay it. To one who has not kept pace with the progress of education, the public examination in these classes yesterday was a revelation. There were very many visitors there yesterday, particularly in the eighth and seventh grade rooms, where the exercises of the E. H. P. L. A. D. S. were held. The school is in charge of Miss Eva H. Prather as principal.

The closing exercises of this school were notably elegant in every detail, from the exquisite color drawings on the blackboards and the dozens of rose and green parasols harmonizing with the tints of wall, woodwork and ceiling, to the beautifully rendered selections in prose and verse and the faultiess order of the 200 children packed like roses in a basket, as sweet and as silent as they. An innovation was made by a pretty arrangement of ropes and rings, which completely cut off the immense crowd from their young entertainers.

Miss Prather has made a very popular, successful and energetic principal, and the general excellence of the school speaks very highly for her talents as a fine disciplinarian and cultured instructor.

The particularly noteworthy numbers on the programme were the recitation, "No. 5 Collect Street," by Miss Jennie May; the concert recitation called "The Bobolink;" "The Caldon Low," by Misse Laurie McRae; "Laska," by Master Theodore Rousseau, and the debate of Master Harry Krouse.

In the Other Grades.

Before the exercises in the principal's room were held the sixth and fifth grades held interesting exercises together. The sixth grade is taught by Miss Hutchinson, the fifth by Miss Annie Hornaday. These young ladies are among the very best teachers in the public schools, and the work of their pupils showed it. The rooms were decorated, the blackboard work in the sixth grade room being particularly fine. The children participating in the exercises here were Frank Vernoy, Maud Allen, Wade Langston, Laura Pritchett, Ethel Woods, Otto Able, Henrietta Kenan, Rob Harris, Eva Friend, John Milan, Clayton Berry, Kate Williams, Irwin Hoyle, Clara Maumanee, Arch Avary, Mable Stilson, May Reed, Annie Wilson, Robert Harris, Clark McMichael, Pearl Ashworth, Ethel Mobley, Leila Harralson, Hugh Atkins, Alec Talley, Jessie DeLoney, Eva Barnes, Scotta Proctor and John Hartsfield.

In the fourth grade, Miss King, and the third grade, Miss Tuller, held exercises together. By the third grade students the Tambourine drill, the Sunflower chorus, the recitations of Adele Rousseau and Lizzie May Turner were especially good. For the fourth grade the recitations of Marie Parks, Jennie Mobley, Johnnie Holmes and Frank Roberts, and the medley by four of the little girls were noticeable features. noticeable features. All of the children did beautifully.

The schools of Miss Bradley, first grade, and Miss Helen Roddy, second grade, held exercises together. The little tots of the first grade did beautifully, among the features being the recitation of Will Parks, two dialogues, the "Mother Goose Cantata" and the "Cloak Song." "The First Party," by Mabel Rose, of the second grade, was an exquisite thing; her dancing was particularly good. "The Pretty Moon," a motion song, rendered by twelve children waving brightly colored harps, and the recitation of Sadie Phelps were other features worthy of special mention.

In the eighth grade, the highest grade of the school, the opening class song, "Cold the Blast May Blow," was sung in happy and sweet blending chorus. A number of entertaining dialogues were given. "The Gipsy Countess," by Misses Minnie Wheals and Annie Dunaway, was a particularly pleasing part of the programme. Mrs. F. S. Whiteside. principal, and Miss Foute, assistant principal, certainly showed the pupils off to fine advantage.

In the first grade of this school were some interesting exercises also. Among the particularly bright parts of the programme were the following events: "By Telephone to Fairy Lands," M. L. Kellam; "The Doll's Wedding," W. B. Hutchinson; "Selling the Baby," Nellie Cox; "Our Tabble," Annie Millen; "I Wouldn't Be a Girl," Julius Jones; "Stretch It a Little," Susie Hafer; "When I'm a Grown Up Woman," Lila Brower; "The Bunch of Flowers," by six little girls, and many others. Miss E. Mills is teacher of this grade.

In the second and third grades the pupils united to give a perfectly splendid programme. The class sang "Bob White" very sweetly. The recitations by Emmie Shields, Lula Price, Linzie Robb, Edwin Niz, Irvy and Viola Gray, Otis Nix and others were deserving of compliment. Miss Annie Roddy is teacher of the second grade and Miss L. Crawford of the third.

The fourth grade sang a pretty song by note. Then came the following, with speeches and a lot of other things: Speeches by Lewis Simmons, Sallie McDaniel, Pearl Humph, Leona Dugar, James Kelly, Pertis Ansley, Mary Dunaway, Bessie Astin, Lyle Reynolds (comic), Suise L. Tyles, Lula Hutchinson, Cleo McClure, Dora Massell, Gertrude Simmons, Edgar Flowers. Miss Effie Walker is teacher of this grade.

In the fifth grade the recitations of Blanche Edwards, David Griffin, Eulalie Martin, Mabel Kennedy, Carrie Hawkins, Moses, Wood and Dayis and others were very enjoyable. Miss Katie McGuire is teacher.

At Wallace Street School.

Here is one of Atlanta's youngest, but or of which the city is and ought to be proud, indeed. The school under the splendid guidance of Miss Amelia Brenner, principal, is prosperous and flourishing most hap pily. The attendance has increased rapidly the standard is high, the training thorough and the discipline as regular as clockwork and the discipline as regular as clockwork.

Yesterday was a happy day and a bright one in the history of this school. In the fifth and sixth grades, taught respectively by Miss Maude McDaniel and Miss Amelia Brenner, there was a joint exhibition of training and a united examination. The recitations were all very fine. Especially was the Japanese dialogue between the pupils of this school a success. The pupils united in singing a Japanese song very charmingly, bringing out the alto, soprano, tenor and bass. The old Jap storekeeper and the lessons he taught were interesting and instructive, as were the compositions on Japan and the Japs.

The third grade had interesting exercises conducted by Miss Pearl Hodges, teacher. The recitation, "Ten Years Old," by Mattin Burge, Nettie Watkins, Hattie Hackwell, Katie Alexander and Pearl Winston was fine. So was the recitations by Alice

The drawings of the school throughout the different grades were remarkably good, but the finest work was executed by Edgar Jones. The number of pupils in the school being in excess of the seats provided, several of the scholars were obliged to occupy chairs during the year.

Decatur Street School. The Decatur street school had many visitors, despite the weather. The pupils had decorated the rooms elaborately and "welcome" was on every wall. Some of this work done by the little ones was quaint. They had used daisies in an effective way, and made their school rooms quite attractive. Interesting programmes were given in the several grades. The drawings on the blackboards were very creditable.

There are four grades in the school, and in each room there were interesting recitations, songs and other exercises. Miss Browning is principal and teacher of the fourth grade, and the work of the pupils in the school reflects credit upon her and the other teachers, Miss Ruby Steinheimer, Miss Garcia, Miss McDonald and Miss Robinson. In all of the rooms the children gave exhibitions of their proficiency in school work and in singing and recitations.

The work of the scholars on the blackboards, their recita-tions and the averages they have made during the year show that these schools, like those for the white children, are in excellent hands.

se Farmers of Georgia Still Reporting Progress.

THE TRUCK AND MELON SECTIONS

Evidences That the Cotton Acres Has Been Curtailed, and Small Grain Extended

Augusta, Ga., June 3 .- (Special.)-The op prospect in this section of Georgia is bright and the farmers are very hopeof a successful season. The merchant this city are receiving the most encour-ing reports from their creditors in the ry who wrote hopefully of a prosperou op year. The crops in the country suring Augusta are in an advanced stat growth and up to the present time the the fields and damage the crop not made their appearance.

The crops have also been materially benefield by the splendid rains we have had with along at about the proper intervals time. The yeomen about Augusta have larned from experience that there is more off in grain and cereals and fruits than aple reached this year and they are di fring their crop and are planting more em, wheat, oats and less cotton and are sing it heavy in fruits. There will be a larger yield in this vicinity this summer since the superabundant crop de in 1889.

The crops around here are all in healthy dition and everybody is looking forward to a prosperous season.

The farmers have, to a great extent, re pected the wishes of those interested in cotton from the producer to the consumer ad have made a great reduction in the cot ton acreage. There are more farmers who have med their cotton acreage 25 per cent than ere are planters who have their acreage 10 per cent.

I had a talk with Dr. Neil McInnes, one of the best posted agriculturalists in Rich mend county, and he says the prospects of the fruit crop are exceptionally good and that there is a large increase in the acreage of the grain crops which will pan out well for the growers.

Mr. Berckmans speaks very favorably for a large peach and cereal crop, in fact of all kinds of fruits.

Mr. B. T. Page, manager of Colonel L. H. Phinizy's El Dorado farm, says the cat crop is good, the corn fine and the fruit splendid. He is now making his second cutting of hay which he finds a very profitable article to grow.

There will be one of the largest and fines crops of watermelons made in this county this year that was ever known to have Farmers are now delighted that they have reduced their cotton acreage and made an increase in corn, wheat and oats, and they have learned a lesson and from now on will raise their supplies at home. The Crops Around Bartow.

Bartow, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—The financial outlook here is somewhat better than it was some time since. The prospects for the crops are good, and all things are taking on a brighter aspect. The merchants say that their trade is somewhat better, and the depot agent informs us that there is more freight coming in now than usual.

than usual.

The Report from Millen.

Millen, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—The recent rains have brought up the cotton planted during the drought, and the crops are in a favorable condition. It is suffering some from lice, caused by cool nights; also caused some of it to die, which necessitated replanting, giving an uneven stand.

Corn—The crop has been largely increased. It is small for the time of year, but is improving daily.

Oats—The crop of early oats was injured by the drought. Spring oats have been improved by the recent rains.

Gainesville, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Cotton is no longer "king" in Hall county, at least, for the present year. The acreage is fully one-third less than for any previous year.

In some portions of the county cotton is good but generally it is poor.

The cool weather has given it—in farmer's parlance—"sore shin" and the leaves are "possum eared."

This causes the stalk to break off near the ground.

Corn is doing well, and the present outlook is that the crop will be larger than was ever known in the county. The acreage has been increased from 30 to 40 per wheat is excellent and if the weather is favorable the yield will be good.

The oats and rye crop is very ordinarily mall acreage, and will be a small yield. Guano is "not in it" to such an extent as beretofore.

This speaks well for the farmer and is lesson that he should have long since arned.

There is a large crop of politics planted here, consisting of democrats and third partyites, together with a sprinkling of republicans. A prominent farmer of this county, who is a farmer strictly, and who lets politics severely alone, said to me this morning that the people of Hall would raise about one bale of cotton to four of politics this fall.

Good for Elberton.

Elberton, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Though our town is a little backward in coming forward in some particulars, she is still in the procession, and it seems now like the is to get in the front rank again. An she is to get in the front rank again. An opera house is under way of construction. A granite man has recently secured a contract for furnishing stone to be quarried here, that will give employment to forty or fifty men. A new hotel is a certainty, and it is one of our greatest needs. The cotton mill project, we believe, will materialize, after a little. The railroad shops are to be located here, and this will be a good send-off for Elberton. Waterworks run by wind mills are being erected by private individuals. Tenement and dwelling houses are going up in nearly every direction. Other business houses are in contemplation.

Everybody knows that the spring is the best senson to take a good medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most popular and successful spring medicine and blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

Herod, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Herod is the name that has been given the thriving and attractive suburban town of Dawson that has heretofore been known as the Cross Roads. The name is given in honor of the original settler, an old Indian chief, of much notoriety, who settled a colony of his tribe here and who for many years lived at this place. Tradition tells us that he was one of the noblest of his race. Many traces of the red man are still to be found here. The old burial ground of the Indians is now adjacent to a modern cemetery. The creek is also near by that has for ages borne the name of this same The creek is also near by that has for ages borne the name of this same chief, by the waters of which we can, in imagination, see the Indian warrior wooing his dusky maiden. The banks of this creek are now a popular resort for our own young men and fair girls. Mounds that were thrown up by the Indians, relics that they left, and many other things, tell us that in days gone by Herod, as it is now, was a place of note. There is here a handsome church in which all denominations are invited to preach; a new commodious schoolhouse that has an able instructor and a full attendance of pupils; two of the largest public gins in the country, over two trousand bales of cotton being ginned by them last season; a large gristmill, canemill, blacksmith and woodshop, etc. Here also is the large mercantile establishment of Hass, Harris, Brim & McLain, that gives the drummers more orders than any like firm in the country.

Albany, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—At the farm of Mr. Maurice Weslosky, a few miles from the city, a Plymouth Rock hen had been set on sixteen eggs—thirteen of which were Plymouth Rock eggs and the other three eggs of a common breed of chickens. The motherly old hen hatched out the whole sixteen, but when they were all able to run about according to her clucking, she seemed to eye the three little aliens suspiciously. That Biddy disproved of the mixture of the breed was at once evinced by the scornful manner assumed, and soon she showed it in an emphatic way by falling viciously on the three strangers and putting a sudden and violent end to their young lives. Who doubts the question of race instinct and survival of the fittest?

RENTING.

My rent department under the management of Mr. Forrest Adair and Mr. John H. Groves, with a competent and efficient corps of assistants and collectors is a special feature in my business.

Prompt attention is given to renting houses, collecting rents, making statements and remittances to owners, repairs, giving in and payment of taxes and all other attention requisite to the proper care and management of the property consigned to my care.

AUCTION SALES.

I am ready to conduct auction sales of real estate for executors, guardians, administrators or private individuals, where they wish to sell at the market price with no by bidding, limits or reservations, but will not enter into the "limit" "no sale no pay" arrangements.

I am not a "no cure no pay" doctor, but conduct my business according to "ethics" and on strict, fair business principles.

This is the only way that is perfectly fair to the seller and to the public.

My business is rapidly increasing, and my sales for this season have been very large.

I did not advertise every sale I have made, because buyers, as a rule, do not want all their private business transactions made public.

If you care to buy, sell, rent or have vacant houses you want rented, call at my office and you will receive due and proper attention.

A Card to Real Estate Owners.

READ THIS CARD—There is no clap-trap about it. We mean what we say, and we claim to be truthful men, composing a re-liable firm and doing business on honest principles.
NOW TO THE POINT—We have scores and scores of customers (and we can show you their names and their wants recorded in a book in our office) who want to buy various kinds of property—homes, vacant lots, acreage near in or further out on some railroad, renting property, business property—cash customers, time customers, installment customers and every sort of customers.

WHAT WE NEED, therefore, is property to offer them at reasonable prices. If property owners who really wish to sell (and none others need call) will list their property with us we can make sales for them.

MR. WARREN HOWARD and Mr. Edwin Williams are with us, and will be glad to serve the public either in our rent or sales department. Any property placed in our hands for rent will receive careful attention.

Receiver for the Atlanta Furniture Manufacturing Co. may31-10t

JUNE 8th, 1892,

Commencing at 110'clock

A. M.

This is a fresh plat and the most beautiful park of lots ever offered around Atlanta. Every lot large and heavily shaded on the luster hights of the Chattahoochee Flectric railroad traverses the center of the park, where the cars are now running on a schedule of thirty almutes and will be in operation before sale. A five-cent rate to the city will be made. On one side are the Georgia Pacific and East Tennessee and Georgia railroads, Old Poden, now Riverside depot; Old Foden, now Riverside are only to be seen to be admired. Beautiful river and mountain views, bubbling springs, gurggling brooks, singing birds and blooming flowers with the first waft of the western breezes, are the things desired by the wife.

No necessity to swelter in the hot city, when you can get a home at Riverside. A substantial barbeccue will be served on the grounds, around some of the magnificent springs. Go out and take the good lady and select your lot. Terms casy. Take Atlanta and Chattahoochee River Electric line, our special train. Plats out in a few days.

We are selling a number of lots and houses and lots to home-seckers. Have a choice line of such property. Call and see us before making your selection.

Lynchings North and South.

We referred not long ago to a very sen sible editorial article in The St. Louis Globe-Democrat relative to the lynchings that occur at the south. The Globe-Democrat, although a republican paper, wrote as if it had an interior understanding of the somewhat abnormal situation which exists at the south.

There are many reasons why the northorn editors should repress their transports of rage when discussing the causes that lead to southern lynchings. There are many reasons why they should soften the epithets which they employ when referring to these unfortunate affairs. There are many reasons why they should take pains to inform themselves of the true inwardness of the situation of which these extra-judicial executions are the outcome.

The Constitution has always denounced appeals to mob law as a species of demoralization which no reputable social organization can survive. Yet we are bound to say that the lynchings which follow the outrage of women, girls, and even little children are as excusable as any result of mob law can be.

is to be observed that these affairs are not confined to the south. At the north, whenever a negro barbarian assaults a white woman, the penalty of death is promptly visited upon him. At Campbellsville, O., a few days ago, there was a case of this kind, and the public sentiment of the community became a once judge, jury and executioner. Let it be borne in mind that in this instance the crime was not completed. The negro simply betrayed his intentions, and he was promptly swung up.

In yesterday's Constitution there was a dispatch setting forth briefly the details of a spectacular performance at Port Jarvis, N. Y., in which a white girl was the victim of a negro brute. The state ment is that he was pursued, captured, brought back, and "strung up to a neigh boring tree in the presence of a howling mob of over a thousand people." Nothing was wanting to make the affair a success, showing that climate and environment have little or no influence on human nature, which is pretty much the same everywhere under the sun.

We advise our northern contemporarie to deal as gently as they can with the manifestations of human nature which take place in the south and are duplicated at the north whenever the opportunity offers. That But the cause that leads to them-the sittion out of which they are developedis more deplorable still. It is no fight thing, may it please your honor and gennen of the jury, for the women and girls of the whole country side to live in ractically a state of siege—to be afraid to venture to a neighbor's or to the schoolhouse lest some black beast shaff lean from the bushes and give them over to a fate worse than death.

Let us think of these things when we become critical enough to take on judicial State Banks of Issue.

The Richmond Times, in an article on the state bank question, refers to a difficulty which existed before the war, when the only paper currency was the notes of state banks. Away from the home of the bank issuing it the note was unknown and therefore at a discount. "A man going from Richmond to New York with $1,000 of Virginia bank notes in his pocket," says The Times, "might find when he got there that they were worth only $900." Might find? We fancy that the probability of such an incident is wholly in the past tense.

Before the war the notes of the state banks of Georgia and South Carolina were as good in New York as they were at home, but their tendency was always In the direction of the bank of issue, and thus the people of Georgia and Carolina were always assured of an elastic currency of sufficient volume to meet the demands of business. Time loans at reasonable rates were always available.

Neither Georgia nor Carolina had any erious experience with what are called wildcat banks. These affairs were mostly the result of frontier experiments, and it is only the deepest ignorance that connects and confuses their operations with those of the state bank system of Georgia and Carolina

With the experience which the people have had during the past half century, it is impossible that any state should sstablish a dangerous system of banks of issue without carefully guarding the note-holders. That this is apparing the note-holders. lish a dangerous system of state ent to the most conservative and experienced financiers of the country is shown by the fact that the New York Financial cle favors the repeal of the tax on the circulation of state banks.

The example of the traveler cited by e Richard Times has little bearing on a present discussion, though we are not sking to belittle the bare possibility blind it. Reasonable uniformity in the me of the notes issued by the banks of arious states is highly desirable, but not absolutely necessary when our facilities for doing business and making exchange are taken into consideration. Indeed, we think that a slight discount on Virginian and Georgian notes in New York would be positive benefit. It would further the very object which those who favor state banks of issue have in view. It would make the currency of each st purely local and turn it homeward whenever it had a tendency to seek the great

Forty years ago, it was no doubt fashionable for a Georgian or a Virginian gentleman to start on a journey to New York with $1,000 in currency in his pock-et, but in these days it is to be doubted if he would go to New York with even $1,000 in treasury notes in his pocket. It would be a burden and a risk. He would simply buy with his local currency, as he does now with government cur rency, $1,000 of New York exchange, get him a through ticket, put some silver change in his pocket and go his way in peace and safety. There are elements in the north and east that will bitterly resent any change in the law that takes the issue of bank notes out of the hands of the federal government. The present system suits these elements admirably. It enables a few men to control the currency of the country. It leads to speculation, and speculation invites to the trade centers for speculative purposes money that would otherwise find reasonably profitable employment in legitimate enterprises. It is no wonder that these elements at the north and east declare that our system as it stands is the most perfect ever devised. Yet it is a system that cannot last. Even John Sherman says it will soon pass away. No better system can be invented to take the place of it than properly guaranteed and thoroughly equipped state banks of issue. The more the subject is discussed the more certainly the state bank system commends itself to the approval of conservative business men.

Trifles and Accidents.

In a recent interview with a correspondent of The New York Herald M. Jules Simon expresses the opinion that there i very little danger of a war in Europe. He says that France is now well-equip ped, and in a struggle with Germany would not come out the loser. And yet, while M. Simon is tolerably certain that no war is in sight, he admits that a triffing incident or an accident may precipitate a bloody conflict.

Trifles and accidents-they shape the destinies of men and of nations. The best plans of statesmen, the calculations of great generals and the schemes of brainy men are liable, as M. Simon says, to be upset by a trifling incident or an accident.

With so many uncertain chances in the way what is any man's prediction worth? We look forward confidently to the continued success and prosperity of the strong and the rich; the orderly progress of society; the permanence of governmen and the careers of the individuals in whom we are interested, when suddenly everything is changed, and we find our selves in dumb bewilderment wondering why we failed to bear in mind the fact that the unexpected sometimes happens.

Will it be peace or war, good times of hard times, life or death, next year, or even tomorrow? We do not know. As the old Frenchman puts it, a trifle or an accident may disappoint us all.

Rural Mail Delivery.

The experiment in the free delivery of mails in rural districts will come to an end on the 30th of June if not extended by a further appropriation. Up to this time the experiment has been remarkably successful, and the postmaster general, in his last annual report, suggested ar increased appropriation for the coming year, in order that a system which promised so well might be extended from the country towns to rural districts. urged the importance of following up this experiment, and the intelligent press all over the country has been almost unanimously of the same opinion. The example of success is present in a large num ber of experimental offices throughout the union, and in a large majority of them, the government has actually made a profit on free delivery, through the increase of revenue which it brings. The experience in Georgia is eminently satis factory, and the people of Hephzibah, the country community in Richmond county which was selected for this purpose, bear unanimous testimony to the success and beneficial influences of the new system To give a clear idea of the growth of bus iness at that office, it is only necessary to take the number of pieces of mail mat

Stallings, of Augusta, visited Hephzibah and reported that since May, 1889, the dispatch of mail had increased 116 per cent, the receipts of registered mail 48 1-2 per cent, the forwarding of registered mail 183 1-3 per cent and the gross receipts of the office 144 1-3 per cent. The free delivery service gives entire satisfaction. Mails are delivered immediately on the arrival of the morning train from Augus ta, and trains from Augusta and Sanders ville meet, bringing mail which is distributed and delivered within a few minutes after its arrival. Letter boxes are placed at convenient points from which mail is collected thirty minutes before the departure of trains. Indeed, the people have every advantage of the larger The idea of the postmaster general is to extend the system of free delivery first to all country towns like Hephzibah, then to the more densely populated country districts, and finally to all. This is a conservative method and one that will make the extension a matter of small expense to the government. On the contrary, there is no doubt that a general extension of mail delivery to the rural districts will very largely increase the revenue to the department. The remark-

Where the exchange of ideas and commodities is now sluggish and feeble, it will be mighty in volume and infinite in variety; no mind can com pass the prospect; it is as incalculable a the waves of the ocean. It may be that even the postmaster general is too cautious in this matter, and that, instead of proceeding by slow stages, it would be better to appropriate several millions at once and set about the work on a scale proportionate to the vastness of the re sults to be attained. This appears to be case where aggressiveness is the best conservatism. The prob-lem of rural delivery has been worked out by other nations

The exercises showed that those in charge of the schools had kept abreas with the day; that the teachers had been faithful and the pupils diligent. The two high schools furnished graduating classes of which any community might well be proud.

The money spent on education brings better returns than that spent on any other object. Any Atlantian, visiting the schools yesterday, would be forced to feel oroud of his city.

A Newspaper Woman.

The recent death of Miss Maria Morgan, of The New York Times, suggests an nteresting train of thought concerning a ositive journalistic factor of today-the newspaper woman.

It is admitted by everybody that the newspaper woman does better work than her male competitors on the society and ashion pages of the great dailies. Nelly Bly has shown that a woman can make her mark as a traveling correspondent and as a special writer. Margaret Sulli van stands in the front rank of editorial writers.

Still, there is a general impression that the newspaper woman is confined to a narrow field. Perhaps this is a mistake. Miss Morgan was a well-educated Irishwomen with a special liking for horses She came to this country in 1869 and began reporting the Saratoga races. Then she took the position of cattle-market reporter for The Times. She knew more than most men about live stock, and wisely decided to utilize her knowledge. instead of trying to write on literary sub lects.

This plucky Irishwoman won her way in the newspaper world, and became a videly quoted authority. She made reputation and money by her writings, and ranked with the best specialists.

It is evident that the newspaper woman has a wide field before her. If she can write able political editorials, graphic letters of travel on a flying trip around the world, descriptions of slum life, and firstclass reports of horse races and cattle markets, as well as society and fashion articles, there is absolutely no limit to her work on the average daily newspaper.

But it will be said that some of this work is unpleasant, and that it unsexes a voman. Well, in these days a woman must live, and it is much better for her to live by honest industry-brain-work or hand-work-than to give up in despair. The example of Maria Morgan shows that a woman can do anything on a newspaper that a man can do.

GEORGIA POLITICAL NOTES.

There is a genuine sensation in republicant circles in Savannah. Professor Morse, who recently had a row with Captain M. J. Doyle, and came out worst, is to be called ck. At any rate, an attempt it to be made in that direction. It is said that a meeting is to be held in Savannah Monday night next for the purpose of "disfranchising" Professor Morse. In other words, the attempt is to be made to keep away from him credentials as a district delegate to the national republican convention at Minneapolis. Exactly how this is to be accomplished is not stated. But the meeting has been called and steps will be taken looking to the keeping of the professor at home. It seems that the republicans of Savannah—who, really, are the republicans of the district—do not like the way in which Morse has come out of the controversy with Captain Doyle, which controversy, it will be remembered, because of the conduct of Morse, ended in Captain Doyle's chastisemen of the professor. These republicans say that as a matter of fact, they do not care about being represented by Morse in the big repub-lican convention, and that they are going to put themselves on record to that effect.

On next Tuesday the democrats of Cherok on next Tuesday the democrats of Cartonics and Forsyth counties will hold grand railies at Canton and Cumming, respectively. Hon. F. Commenting on the interest expressed, The Alpharetts From Press server.

"The people are ripe for action, and when it is hinted abroad that the democrats are to meet, the people flock in to join in the good work. As it was in Alpharetta three weeks ago last Wednesday, so will it be at Canton and Cumming next Tuesday. The people are interested in the proceedings of these democratic meetings. They fully realize the necessity of organized action as the only the necessity of organized action as the effectual means of escaping carpet-bag and negro supremacy."

The political situation is getting livelier in Sumter county each day. New candidates are steadily coming to the front. There is an S. W. Small in Sumter who, it is said, will have a strong backing for representative will have a strong backing for representative; C. C. The Times-Recorder, summing up the situation, says: "One thing is sure, Sunter will have two wise, conservative, long-headed democrats in the next house that will do their duty."

Next Wednesday is to be a lively day in Athens, politically speaking. The third party will hold a convention in Athens. The pur-pose is to nominate a candidate for congress from the eighth district, and transact other business. It is not believed that the people's party hopes to elect its candidate for con gress in this district, but he will be nomi nated as a matter of course. There have no aspirants announced, but the name of Rev. J. L. Robins, the district lecturer of the allance, has been mentioned.

Colonel W. A. Broughton, in a letter to The Madisonian, defining his position as to the St. Louis platform, concludes as follows

"I had the honor of representing the eighth congressional district in the Ccala convention and know that the platform there formulated and adopted is the true platform of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union of America, and it is the platform I heartily endorse, and will support to the utmost of my ability. It gave me the greatest pleasure to see that the state democratic convention, which assembled in Atlanta last week, adopted many demands that are embraced in this platform. I have spent the best energies and efforts of my life, during the past four years for the principles of the Farmers' Alliance and for the farmers; for our interests are the same, and there is a strong and loving cord that bidds us, and I beseech them to act in calmness and with judgment. I desire them to picture to themselves the destruction of the cause we loved so well and fought so vallantly to maintain."

The Macon Gaslight and Water Com-The Macon Gaslight and Water Company has commenced the work of laying down the new water mains on Pine street. This gives the city an additional supply of water, and, while it has been long delayed, those who now see that the work is going on say that it is better late than never. The main trouble over Macon's water supply last season was because there was not sufficient water on hand to lay the dust. The water company has repeatedly promised. The water company has repeatedly promised that such a disgraceful state of affairs that such a disgraceful state of altairs would never exist again if they were given a good contract and full swing. They now have an excellent contract and full swing, and the citizens devoutly hope plenty of carts to sprinkle plenty of water will be supplied by the proper authorities.

believe, however, that the gay lord is in Atlanta.

Those whom Beresford has swindled are particularly anxious to bring him to justice, and this list is increasing daily. If it continues to swell it will include half of the diizens of Rome.

Fresh pieces of villainy which he committed are coming to light almost daily.

Mr. Robert J. Reagan, the Rome merchant is one of Beresford's latest victims. Among the many businesses conducted by the gay lord one was that of a commission broker.

He claimed to represent large flouring mills and sold flour in carload quantities. He sold to Mr. R. J. Reagan a lot of flour, and showing him what seemed to be a bona fale bill of lading for the flour, he collected the money, $680, from Mr. Reagan and to the money of the money Mr. Reagan had paid for the flour. Two days ago the check came back dishonored, and now Mr. Reagan is wondering if his flour will ever come. If

Yesterday morning a pair of broken shackles were found beneath the Calhoun street culvert, and they told a story that reads like an extract from the Old Sleuth library.

The shackles were recognized by Mr. Bruce Harris as a pair that had been worn in the stockade and an investigation showed that stockade, and an investigation showed that young Francis Crouch had worn them.

A few days ago young Francis Couch was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct,

But that's not all the story.

When Couch was first carried to the stock ade a counterfeiter's outfit was found in his pocket and the superintendent took it is charge, intending to turn it over to the United States authorities for investigation. Couch knew this, and the knowledge perhaps induced him to escape.

Yesterday Couch's father paid the fine against him, but the matter was reported to the detectives and they are looking for Couch.

The United States authorities will probably make out a case against him.

THAT NARROW ESCAPE Which a Negro Had Last Night-A Would-

Be Burglar.

A black villain came very near coming to a sudden end last night, and he may thank the lucky star that saved him. Last night about 11 o'clock Mrs. B. H. Kline was sitting at her home, 229 East Hunter street, awaiting for her husband to come home.

She was badly startled to hear a noise in the rear of the house, as of some one moving a window. She slipped through the hall to the back of the house, and discovered a big negro climbing in at the window.

Badly frightened the lady rushed back ed a big negro climbing in at the window.

Badly frightened the lady rushed back screaming.

The sound of her frightened cries aroused Mr. Balch, a neighbor, and he came running to her assistance. The negro was frightened at the cries of the lady, and he jumped down and ran off.

A few minutes later when all was quiet, the negro returned and again climbed up into the window. Mrs. Kline discovered him and again she ran to the front screaming. Fearing that Mr. Balch would return the negro disappeared, but continued to prowl about the back yard.

A few minutes later Mr. Kline reached home and found his wife in a state of terror. She gave him a description of the negro, and he grabbed his pistol and started out in search of the negro.

About two blocks away he found a big negro standing on the street corner, who answered the description given by his wife.

The negro stoutly denied having been about his place, but Mr. Kline forced him to go with him back to his home to see if Mrs. Kline would recognize him.

As soon as her eyes fell upon the burly wretch Mrs. Kline declared that he was the man, and Mr. Kline cocked his revolver and raised it and said:

"I'll just kill you right here."

And the indignant gentleman would no doubt have carried his threat into execution but for the interference of his wife. She grabbed her husband's arm and begged him not to kill the negro. She persuaded him to let the negro live, and Mr. Kline decided to bring him to the police station.

With revolver in hand Mr. Kline marched the negro was terribly frightened and admitted that he had attempted to enter the house. The negro was locked up and a state case will be made against him.

"I came within an inch of kllling the black wretch," said Mr. Kline.

SCENE OF EXQUISITE BEAUTY.

Forty-Six Young Ladies Beceive Their Diplomas – The Class Hymn-A Delightful Programme.

It was a rare scene that greeted the large audience last night at DeGive's opera house, when the curtain rose upon the graduating exercises of the Girls' High The Girls' High school has always been close to Atlanta's heart, but never so close as it seemed last night. The great authat was carried out by the young hearsal on account of the cheering with which their efforts were greeted.

It was beauty's festival and never was beauty more bewitching.

There were forty-six young ladies, seated in front of the footlights—the largest from the institution. They were charmingly arranged in sncw-white dresses, adorned with beautiful flowers and ribbons, and every now and then as their eyes swept over the sea of faces, a "howdy-do" smile would illuminate their features as they spled their friends in the auditorium.

It was announced last year, and has been the custom of the superintendent, to announce each year, that no flowers were expected by the young ladies. Notwith-standing the fact, however, every field and hothouse around Atlanta were tributary to their feet—or rather to the little room adjacent. Every kind of blossom, from the little out-cast daisy to the great white calla lily, was gathered into lovely baskets, and these were carried by the ushers to the appointed place behind the scenes.

The Exercises Begin.

The exercises commenced promptly at a quarter after 8 o'clock, and the curtain being raised the young ladies from either side marched out upon the stage to the in-They formed themselves into three columns of snowy dresses, and then in a solemn concert repeated the simple petitions of the Lord's prayer. The chorus, "Slumber Song" was then sung by the class in a beautiful manner that elicited a warm response from the audience.

Major W. F. Slation, superintendent of the public schools, announced the different response from the audience.

Major W. F. Slation, superintendent of the public schools, announced the different features of the programme, and after the class was seated, introduced to the audience Miss Edna Pope, who read the "salutatory" of the evening. It was a lovely composition, happily conceived and beautifully wrought out in words. She was heartily applauded for her effort.

The curtain was then lowered, and during an interval of two or three minutes, the young ladies arranged, themselves for the next feature. When the signal was given and the curtain reascended, they marched out again upon the stage, and for nearly fifteen minutes they delighted the audience with their beautiful evolutions. Their "right wheels" were simply perfect and if there were any soldiers in the crowd of lookers-on they no doubt turned green with envy as they looked upon the spectacle. The graceful poses of body that came in the order of the movements, and the exquisite gestures with which they seemed to govern their witchery, was entrancingly beautiful, and when the march was concluded the audience broke out into a storm of applause. Miss Della Akers and Miss Kate Pendleton are entitled to much credit for the excellent manner in which they conducted the march—being stationed at the different ends. The evolutions were as intricate as they were lovely, and it would take a mathematician as well as a poet to do it justice.

The rest feature of the exercises was a

Essays and Music. The next feature of the exercises was a recitation, entitled "Tobe," by Miss Daisy Jacobs. It was charmingly recited and evinced unusual talent as an elocutionist. Miss Jacobs recited in front of the curtain, and during the rendition of her piece the chairs were arranged in the back for the young ladies to resume their seats.

young ladies to resume their seats.

Then "Fairyland Waltz" was delightfully sang by the class.

Miss Alma Morris then read an exquisite essay on "Liking and Disliking." It was read in a clear distinct voice that was easily heard throughout the house, and was greatly enjoyed.

"The Schoolmaster" was the subject of a neat essay by Miss Augusta Choate, and it was read, as it was written, in a bright and captivating style.

it was read, as it was written, in a bright and captivating style.

Miss Lucy Irby evinced by her essay on "Silent Influences," a graceful and fluent use of the pen, as well as a thorough knowledge of her subject.

An original poem by Miss Fannie Bloodworth, who also wrote the class hymn, was a rare gem, and she recited it in a manner that enhanced considerably the effect of its beauty.

Another chorus was then sung by the class, after which Miss Rosa Dibble delivered a well written essay entitled "Cheerfulness," which she read in an entertaining

Another chorus was then sung by the class, after which Miss Rosa Dibble delivered a well written essay entitled "Cheerfulness," which she read in an entertaining manner.

The class prophecy, which was, perhaps, the feature of the evening, was then read in an earnest, oracular manner by Miss Rebecca Vaughn.

"From the heights of North America," said she, "the eye wanders to the lowlands of China, seeking merry Julia Brenner and her friend, May Ivy, missionaries to the heathen Chinee. I see Kate Pendleton, a demure maiden, teaching a Sunday school class. In the ranks of that noble army of teachers we find gentle Leanna Dawson, Josie Heinz, Eddle Hardwick and Lena Proffitt. There, too, we find our Vassar girl, Augusta Choate, the future principal of the Girls' High school.

"Ada Perrin will be a musician. Carrie Villard and Mary Robert will become great artists. Mary Woolf will be wedded to a Georgia senator, and Blanche Durant will become a celebrated musician."

Thus she pictured the future of her different classmates, and during the reading of her prophecy was frequently interrupted with applause and laughter.

"Home," an essay by Miss Lizzle Doster, was a delightful composition, and was warmly appreciated by the audience.

The valedictory to the board of education and teachers was delivered by Miss Bertha Brady, first honor. She introduced it with a superb rendition of Tom Moore's beautiful poem, "Oft in the Stilly Night," and the words with which she severed the ties of association were tenderly expressed.

Miss Mary Roberts, first honor, delivered her valedictory to the class. It was couched in exquisite language, and was replete with earnest and beautiful thoughts. It was delivered with graceful effect.

Mr. Hoke Smith, president of the board of education, then presented diplomas to the following young ladies.

Full Course—Della Akers, Ella Elizabeth Anglin, Stella Fannie Anglin, Emmie D. Bean, Frances Marion Bloodworth, Julia Jeanette Brenner, Augusta Choate, Leanna Dawson, Jennie Screven Doar, Sara Maude

"The Last Rose of Summer." Her clear, sweet voice filled the entire building, and drew from the audience a storm of applause. The song was accompanied by emotional gestures from the class, and the scene, as well as the music, was indescribable.

The audience dispersed, pleased in the highest degree with the entertainment.

Some Facts About School Books.

Every one has some knowledge of school books and has had to do with them, more or less, at some period in his life. In youth they were not considered objects of particular regard or affection, but in maturer years they became more highly prized for their useful lessons of instruction and preparation for life's work. A sight of the old-time and well-worn school book always brings to mind memories of the old schoolhouse and play ground, of the classes and classmates of "just forty years ago." But times change, and our school books have changed with them. There has been as marked improvement in the field of letters and education as in the scientific and industrial departments of the world's progress. In no respect is this great improvement more clearly shown than in the school books now published for the children of this golden age—an age distinguished for good books and free education for the masses. While the great improvement in the merit and quality of the modern school book is freely and unqualifiedly acknowledged by all, there is a common idea prevailing in the public mind that the price of the same has been correspondingly advanced. This common impression is a great mistake, as school books are in fact cheaper in this country today than ever before. Notwithstanding the cost of the preparation and manufacture of these books has been largely increased, owing to the superior skill, material and workmanship employed therein, still the price of the books to the consumer has not been increased, but on the contrary has been materially reduced within the past few years. It can be shown from the price lists of publishers and book dealers that there has been It can be shown from the price lists of pub-lishers and book dealers that there has been a reduction in the price of school books to the public within the past twenty years of from 40 to 50 per cent, and 20 per cent of this reduction has been made within the past few years.

Another common error about school books is in regard to their aggregate use and cost. Estimates of the total cost of school books used in a given section or state have frequently been made which are extravagant and ridiculous.

is in regard to their aggregate use and cost. Estimates of the total cost of school books used in a given section or state have frequently been made which are extravagant and ridiculous.

Such calculations are invariably made from mistaken data and assumptions. The common mistake in such estimates is to aggregate the cost of a full series of books from a primer to the high school books and assume this as a correct basis for inding the annual cost of school books in any given city, county or state. No greater mistake could be made in such calculations, and yet it is one frequently made by those who ought to know better. There is a great difference between the amount required to equip any given school or schools with a complete outlit of books, and the comparatively small amount annually required to supply the new pupils and repair the small natural loss. While there are no statistics compiled or accessible by which exact calculations can be made of the total cost of school books annually used in the United States, there are official reports giving the consumption and cost of school books in certain cities, having known school populations, which furnish definite data for general estimates under similar conditions. For exampls the city of St. Louis supplies the pupils of the public schools with all their school books through an officer of the board of education, called the supply agent. A statement for the school year ending July 1,1890, signed and certified by the supply agent. A statement for the school year ending July 1,1890, signed and certified by the supply agent. A statement for the schools of St. Louis purchased books amounting to $20,995.48. The number of pupils enrolled during that year was 55,920. From this official data, we can easily ascertain the average annual cost of school books per pupil. Which we find to be a small fraction over 37 cents. Of course more books would be required in a city like St. Louis than in the schools of a whole state, owing to their longer school term, closer grading and gr

HE WAS ONCE IN ATLANTA,

Jati.

Savannah, Ga., June 3. (Special.)—Sigmond Freedman, recently released from Atlanta jail, was arrested here today for forgery. He will be given a hearing before Mayor McDonough tomorrow. Freedman forged Mr. Eichberg's name to a check, which he passed at Altmayor & Co.'s for a bill of goods. Freedman was arrested in Atlanta for swindling Mrs. Eichberg, who was connected with the Jewish aid societies, took an interest in the young man and thinking he would reform if got out of trouble, she settled matters and had him released. He came to Savannah and sent word to Mr. Eichberg that he wanted encugh money to leave the city. Mr. Eichberg gave the necessary amount, but Freedman didn't leave and resorted to forgery to raise more cash. Freedman returned both goods and money to Altmayer & Co., and submitted quietly to arrest. He seemed to take his incarceration as an ordinary thing. In fact he acted quite silly, and those who saw Freedman don't believe he has a proper balance of mind.

Our Limited Ideas.

From The New York Sun.

The Gentleman's Magazine quotes a computation made by the renowned mathematician Hooke, that the number of ideas entertained by any mind, in the course of a lifetime, cannot go beyond 8,655,760,000. We cannot accept this computation of Dr. Hooke. It is far too low; it is too low by at least a half, even for Englishmen, and it is ridiculously low for some Americans. It would not be difficult to name New Yorkers who are capable of entertaining as many as 100 ideas in a minute, which is at the rate of 6,000 an hour, or not less than 108,000 a day, if they ignore the eight-hour rule, and work steadily from sunrise to bedtime. But in Chicago even this would be considered slow business, at least for a world's fair promoter.

The Gentleman's Magazine, in quoting Hooke's calculation, ought to have informed its readers that Hooke was thinking only of Englishmen, whose intellectual mechanism works in a deliberate kind of way. UNITED STATES WEATHER MAP FOR TODAY.

THE NEW YORK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

NEW YORK, June 8.—The stock market bontinued dull today and sold down a fraction at the opening on sales from London. After the pressure from that source was withdrawn by the closing of the London market, prices improved slightly. New England, Sugar and Burlington, however, continued to fall from other than London reasons. The general list closed at about the opening prices, or at fractional changes. Distillers are up 1 per cent, Burlington and New England are each down 1.8 per cent. Sales of listed, 220,000; unlisted, 28,000.

J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The London market was again a seller, and although they sold but about eight thousand shares, still it had a moral effect on speculation. The bears bought stocks during the first half hour and fiter that they sold a few they had previously bought but, per balance, we think they bought more stocks than they sold. The orders executed on the floor were mainly from bear sources, as the general commission business is very light. The only long stock that came out today was Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and this stock was weak from opening to close and scored a decline of over 1 per cent. The advancing price of corn and wheat in Chicago shows conclusively that the crop damage has beez serious. The Industrials were again strong and Whisky was again active. Although only paying 4 per cent on the stock, the company is earning double the amount. Sterling exchange was a little softer, and the shipments by tomorrow's steamer will only be about one million dollars. The market will rally from time to time on the short interest, but we think stocks a sale on every raily. J. S. Bache & Co.'s Stock Letter.

NEW YORK, June 3.— The following al net receipts of cotton at all United ince September 1, 1891:

closes practically one hour later than our own, and being cabled to Liverpool last night, resulted in a further advance of 2-51d this morning. This of course came as a surprise to those who sold cotton here last evening, and the opening of our market was quite buoyant at an advance ranging from 1@11 points. A subsequent further improvement carried August contracts to 7.75, at which price it is rumored a large line of cotton was marketd. The supply thus furnished checked the advance and led to a gradual decline here, 3 points of the extreme improvement having been lost by 1 o'clock, at which hour August contracts were again selling at 7.68. Rumors reached as from Liverpool of the operations of a strong clique there headed by a prominent American house whose declared intention it is to put the market to 4½d in Liverpool. On the other hand, a report is current here that during the past three days a Wall street clique, who are thought to have been long from 60,000 to 100,000 bales of cotton, have entirely liquidated their holdings. In Manchester yarns are reported strong, while cloths are said to be in moderate demand. Spot sales in Liverpool today are 10,000 bales. During the months of June, July and August the New York cotton exchange will not open on Monday mornings until 11 o'clock. During the afternoon the market reacted slightly and closed some 324 points above the lowest for the day and about 5 points over last evening's prices. There were no new features of importance, and the recovery is mainly the result of cautionary buying on the part of those who dislike to be short over the holidays. The interior movement is 5,100 bales, which is about 1,000 bales less than had been earlier expected.

NEW YORK, June 3 - Liverpool this morning was a great surprise to our traders here an entirely different state of affairs having been expected from there. On our closing last night it was assumed that Liverpool would recede. On the contrary, the first advices were at an advance of a full 3-64d, which was fairly well maintained to the last. The buying, as our friends tell us, has been large, mainly upon the idea that conditions south assure but a promise of a very moderate crop. Prices here opened at an advance of $39 points, but immediately after the first trading a further improvement of 465 points set in, and at one time we were materially better than yesterday's highest. Without any appreciable cause, however, shortly after the noon call the market became heavy. Large stop orders were brought into force, bringing out considerable cotton. The southern markets, however, continued firm and reflected an influence upon prices here again this afternoon, a recovery having followed from the lowest figures made, the actual prices tonight being only 768 points above last night's close. The Whitsuntide holidays are now before us, and Liverpool will be closed until Wednesday, so that we see little prospect of any great change, and the probabilities are the tax market all he dell until we enter upon a Cehman Bros.' Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO, June 3.—A wild scramble in the wheat pit today and a bulge of nearly 3 cents in prices was due to a covert attempt at pur-chasing by Pardridge. The crowd was evi-dently largely short, and when buying began it was found that there was hardly any wheat for sale. This discovery only increased the anxiety to cover, resulting in a bear panic. Pardridge soon abandoned his idea of buying, but it was noticed that he was not selling Pardridge soon abandoned his idea of buying, but it was noticed that he was not selling anything of consequence. A report was current on the floor that a big operator was selling on securities on the local stock exchange in view of the possible squeeze in wheat and corn. It was gossib that he had been called on for $200,000 margins on short wheat last night, and it is certain that he was called heavily today. St. Louis was very bullish, and is reported as pressing buying in this market. In the local trade it looked as if a strong combine was working to put the shorts in a corner and start a big bull market. Rumor has it that Pardridge is short 8,000,000 bushels of wheat and 4,000,000 bushels of corn. The opening in wheat was at $3.3-8 cents for July—about 1-2 cent lower than last night—but there were very few resting places in the market after it was put fairly on the boil, and the price was several times run up and down in an agitated way between $5 and $5.3-4 cents, after a builge to $6 cents. The closing price was $5.3-8 cents sellers.

The shorts in corn became anxious buyers when the scare came in wheat. They were helped wonderfully by a large element in the trade now talking 75 cents for corn on the possible crop failure. The advance was very sharp and strong. July, which opened unchanged at 48.5-8 cents, went flying to 49.7-8 cents. There was a great deal of selling on the advance by longs and it was thought that Pardridge and other big shorts must have absorbed the offerings.

Oats were also strong and made a gain over yesterday's closing price of 1 cent per bushel. Provisions gained a little in the article of barreled pork, but lard is no higher and ribs are from 2 1.2 to 5 cents lower.

The leading inures ranged as fellows in Chicago today.

83 1/6 33 1/6

By Private Wire to A. P. Youngblood. CHICAGO, June 3.—With the except Liverpool, all foreign reports are uni-ble to holders of wheat. The Russian ister of husbandry makes very favorable reports concerning crops, plenty of rain and a fair acreage. London unchanged; Berlin and Paris lower. The strength here was caused by liberal buying of speculators from all large customers. This, with the advance in corn, frightened the shorts who were the principal actors. It is generally believed that Pardridge and a few other large shorts have not yet protected their July contracts. If that is the case the strife will be between them and a number of large speculators who believe in higher prices. To add to the scarcity of corn, owing to the light receipts, country shippers in localities where the scance it very backward were liberal buyers, causing a very strong market. Very little graded corn is arriving, and the holders think the reasonable thing to presume is that if the weather will clear up, farmers will sell out their holdings and the market be relieved from this present strained condition. Of course a renewal of bard weather will cause a continuance of the scare and a corresponding advance in the market. Outs are all consumed as soon as the car lots or sample market opens, taken for domestic use and by shippers. Packers continuate to be free sellers of provisions. The market has remained strong owing principally, we think, to the advance in coarse grains. In fact, nearly everything the farmers sell now seems to make a direct line to the consumer, either man or beast, to supply the immediate wants for food.

The Alaska

Refrigerator.

FACTS WORTH CONSIDERING

The qualities sought for in the refrigerator are Preservation of Perishable Food and an Economical Use of Ice.

The economical use of ice depends entirely upon the principle involved, the construction of the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the or the Refrigerator, and in utilizing all the cold air.

Dry atmosphere and uniform temperature can be obtained only by a perfect circulation of the air in the Refrigerator, and its condensation in the ice chamber.

The Alaska is constructed upon strictly scientific principles, by which low temperature and dryness of air are naturally and inevitably obtained. ably obtained.

The Alaska possesses a provision chamber free from odor.

The Alaska produces better results with less ice than any other refrigerator.

The Alaska is a dry-air refrigerator, and the best one ever patented. DOBBS, WEY & CO. 61 Peachtree Street.

Grigsby has been in jall for a month and rts to secure his release have been on bot for a week or more.

The charge against Grigsby and the dealls of the transaction which led to the charge are familiar reading to the public. He was arrested at the same time as Cliff Mayson, Gertie Jacobs and one or two others, who were thought to be implicated in unlawful signing of the name of Mrs. A. F. Taylor to a mortgage. By this forg-sty the American Trust and Banking Com-any lost $1,500. The parties were ar-rested in Dallas, Tex., and when they were plicated in the trouble at all, and they were released and fully exonerated of all blame h the matter. Only Grigsby was held, and as a result some clever detective work on the part Chief of Detectives Wright and Detective Crim, Annie Cleveland, a woman of the town, was arrested charged with being implicated in the matter. want to make a statement to the "I want to make a statement to the public about the matter," she said. "The papers have all treated Grigsby fairly and I believe they will do me justice. The truth about the matter is, I signed the paper as is charged against me. But I did so with no intention of committing forgery or doing any wrong at all. A day or so before the paper was signed Grigsby came to me and said he wanted me sign a paper, which would be a gree favor to his father who was in Washing heity. I told him I would sign it if it suld be doing a favor to his father, and he said he would give me $25 for what I did. I signed the paper but told him I did not want the money. I thought it was doing a favor to his father and charged nothing for it.

"After I signed the paper he told me to meet him at Mr. Woodside's office, and when I went down there he handed me a roll of money, which he said contained $35. I went off and heard no more of the matter until I was arrested by the detectives.

The Baker Disbarment Case-Southern Educational Association—The Byan Case,

The local executive committee of the Southern Educational Society will meet in the office of the state school commissioner Monday morning at 9 o'clock to organize for the coming convention. There are only about three weeks before the meeting of the Southern Educational Association and it will bring two to three thousand delegates. The local committee will have to work vigorously for the next three weeks to perfect the arrangements necessary to receive the largest convention of the year. The local executive committee is composed of the following gentlemen: W. F. Slaton, president; State School Commissioner S. D. Bradwell, the vice president of the society; R. J. Guinn, secretary; Hoke Smith, W. A. Hemphill, A. L. Kontz, E. B. Stahlman, Joseph Hirsch, L. M. Landrum, Josiah Carter and D. A. Bentie.

The chairmen of the other committees are requested to meet with the executive committee. They are E. B. Stahlman, transportation; Clark Howell, Jr., Press; R. J. Lowry, reception; W. L. Calhoun, hotels and entertainment; George W. Harrison, badges; W. S. Thomson, halls and meeting places, and A. L. Waldo, printing.

The State Frinting.

The printing commission has issued advertisements for bids for the state printing for the next two years. Bids will be received for thirty days from June 1st. Blanks and information will be furnished on application to the secretary of state.

The laws and journals are required to be completed within thirty days after the adjournment of the legislature. The bids are to be made in detail—specifications on composition, proof reading, binding, make-up, paper, etc.

The Baker Disbarment Case.

The motion for a new trial in the Baker disbarment case from Cartersville is being argued before the supreme court. It will be remembered that this case was the cause of a fight in the courthouse at Cartersville. The result of the trial in the superior court was that Mr. Ab Baker, of the Cartersville bar was disbarred. The motion for the new trial is argued by Major W. I. Heyward, Colonel W. H. Dabney, of Dabney & Fouche, Rome, and Judge McCutchen, of McCutchen & Shumate, Dalton. The other side is represented by T. Warren Aiken, A. W. Fite and W. S. Johnson. The argument was opened yesterday afternoon by Major Heyward.

The Ryan Case.

The defendants in the Ryan case continued to introduce evidence yesterday. Mr. Downs, Ryan's bookkeeper, testified that the kiting operations were carried on by Mr. Ryan for a year before the failure. Colonel Albert Cox, for the defense, announced that one more day would wind up the evidence for the defense. The complainants then introduce some interpolations, Mr. Steve Ryan will take the stand and give his skile of the case.

At the close of yesterday's hearing the auditor adjourned the hearing till Monday. The big case appears to be rapidly approaching the end of the evidence. Then there will be the argument, which will probably last a week or ten days, perhaps longer.

Is Tempted.

BECOMES AN EMBEZZLER.

To Escape Arrest He Flees, Is Arrested in a Texas City, and Will Be Brought Back to Atlanta.

Another young man with tastes for fine ressing and a desire for high living has gone wrong.

Lured from the policy of honesty, which had given him the utmost confidence of his employers and friends—by the temptation living in swell style and keeping up with his gay companions—he embezzled money from his employers, skipped the town when it was discovered, and is now in the custody of the officers of the law.

The young man who is guilty of this misstep is young Mack Smith, well known about the city, and connected with one of the best families in Atlanta.

Young Smith is But Nineteen Years Old.

and is a young man of polished manners, elegant dress and quite good looking. He has been employed by several firms in the city as collector, and has always borne a putation for the strictest honesty and re ability.

For several months past Smith has been employed as collector for the well-known Whitehall street dry goods house of Doug-lass, Thomas & Davison. He filled the position very satisfactorily to his employers, and was regarded as one of the most faithful and trusted men in the house. Bills for immense amounts of money were given him for collection, and he was trusted with the funds of the firm freely.

Nothing crooked was ever discovered about Smith's dealings with the firm's money, and no wrong was ever suspected.

Last Tuesday Smith left the city. It was the last day of May, and on Wednesturn up at the store.

A big roll of bills, as is usual on the first of the month, were made out for Smith to collect, and his failure to turn up disappointed the firm considerably.

The day passed off and, as Smith did not come, Mr. Thomas suspected that something Had Gone Wrong.

An investigation revealed the fact that Mack Smith had left the city and no one of his friends could tell where he had gone.

This sudden and unexplained disappearance aroused the suspicions of the firm, and they began to further investigate. A close examination of the bills Smith had handled seemed to indicate that the young man was-a defaulter. The employers of the young man were astounded at this discovery. That the young man could be dishonest was a painful thought to them, and they examined his accounts time and again to make sure that there was no mistake.

The result of each of these examinations only strengthened the discovery made at He had worked his game in a bold manner, and but for his established reputation for honesty and fair dealing the defalcation would certainly have come to light before Bills that were entrusted to him for collection were collected and money pocketed by Smith. parties against whom the bills were held had failed to pay, and thus day after day the defalcation was tided over. It would inevitably have come to light on the first of the present month and the young man knew it. To save himself he fled.

As soon as the firm discovered the shortage they reported the case to Chief Wright and he went to work to apprehend the youth-ful defaulter.

Located at Fort Worth.

Captain Wright's men learned that young Smith had gone west and that it was his intention to go to Los Angeles, Cal. Telegrams were sent to that place, to Denver, to St. Louis, to Kansas City, and to all the Texas cities, giving a full description of young Smith, and asking that he be arrested. Yesterday afternoon Chief Wright received a telegram from Assistant Chief of Police Matkins, of Fort Worth, Tex., stating that he had arrested Smith and had him then in the police prison at that place. Smith went directly from Atlanta to Texas, and when the train that carried him into the depot at Fort Worth drew up Assistant Chief of Police Matkins stood waiting for it, and as young Smith alighted he recognized in him the young man described in Chief Wright's telegram and arrested him. As soon as the telegram announcing Smith's arrest was received Mr. Thomas, Smith's arrest was received Mr. Thomas, of the firm of Douglass, Thomas & Davison was notified. He asked that young Smith be sent for, as the firm inteuds prosecuting the case vigorously.

A requisition for young Smith upon Governor Hogg, of Texas, was signed by Governor Northen yesterday afternoon.

This afternoon Detective Looney will leave for Fort Worth armed with the requisition for the young man, he having been selected by Chief Connolly for the trip.

The news of Smith's wrongdoing fell like a thunder clap among his friends, and they are at a loss to understand it. He belongs to an honored family, and lived with his mother in a pleasant home on Garnett street. By all who knew him he was regarded as a promising young man, and a successful future was prophesied for him.

Messrs. Douglass, Thomas & Davison have not been able to arrive at the exact amount of Smith's defalcation, as it is impossible to tell until all their bills have been presented. The amount aggregates several hundred dollars, however, and may reach a thousand.

sand.

The firm has been particularly anxious that the young man be caught and worked hard to that end.

His Is Not a Campaign for Office, bu Talk Over Matters and Get Aquainted.

One of the hardest things in the world to do is to pin an adroit politician down on any one point or spot—then go and leave him, come back and find him still there.

Hercules had easy jobs alongside of politician is like Emmett Wom mack's eel—a wriggler, a slippery cuss.

But how different it is in the case of an ingenuous, bluff, independent character, such as Rev. Sam Small. If you do not know where a man of his class stands, ask him.

He will tell you.

To make himself clear he may flood you with elaborate statement, but that is to make his position plain and unmistakable.

Mr. Small has had the misfortune to be misunderstood. Some people have thought that he is a candidate for congress. He is not, though He says positively that he is Not in the Race,

nor is he even asking his friends to give him time to make up his mind. Mr. Small feels that he has been misrepresented, but he does not resent that bitterly. Being a free American citizen, he claims the right to hire halls and make public speeches when ever he wishes, and he generously accordthe American public the right to draw in

All this speaking which he is doing over the fifth congressional district of Georgia s simply a campaign of enlightenmentmission of education.

While sitting on the iron railing in front of the Kiser building, yesterday afternoon, waiting for the dummy cars to come along, he explained this fully and freely to a Con stitution reporter. Mr. Small said emphat-leally that he has not declared himself a candidate for congress. At the same time he declines to assume the responsibility for any inference to that effect which may have been drawn. And as for being a third party candidate, nothing is more re-mote from the fact. He would be just as likely to preach anti-prohibition as to advo-cate the third party movement. He is dead against it, and, when it comes to republicanism, he is as much its enemy as he s whisky's.

In lecturing and preaching all over this country from northeastern Maine to the southwestern border of Colorado, he has talked to thousands of men in the cars, in the hotels, in offices and in their private houses, to say nothing of the hundreds of thousands he has addressed from the platform.

"I know how the people of this country feel on the leading issues of the day," said he, "and I tell you they are wide-awake and well informed. They know and they have a pretty good idea why they are not going right."

That St. Louis platform will not afford the remedy, nor will the republican party, says Mr. Small. And he candidly avows says Mr. Small. And he candidly avows his disbelief in the complete efficacy of the doctrines propounded by all who label themselves democrats. He is a Jeffersonian-Sam Small democrat himself, opposed to republican control of Georgia and national affairs. He says that he does not mind republican domination in Maine so much, but he would mourn to see it in Georgia. This is because he loves the state which is his home.

"Every white Georgian who is not a republican should be a democrat, and arrayed against republicanism," he declared. "We should not have any division among the democrats of the south. And the men who have been fattening on what little there is in democratic offices these last twenty years ought to get up off their chairs and go to work for the party."

Mr. Small is not carried away by an optimistic trust in all things coming around just as they should be without any exertion being made, There

Mast Be No Division

Must Be No Division among the whites which would give a south-ern man in congress for the force bill. He is out discussing public matters with the so out discussing public matters with the people, he says.

For six years he has not had an opportunity to meet the people in the country here at home. He has not been going to barbecues, political meetings and public gatherings around here for some time and he wants to meet old acquaintances and make new ones.

wants to meet old acquaintances and make new ones.

"When they ask me for my opinion of the third party I ask them to show me the baby. I saw that St. Louis convention and I saw anarchists, communists, red flag bearers, men who had worn the gray and men who had worn the blue, black and white, men and women—a greater collection of animals than Peter saw let down in the street from heaven. When so many colors went into the pot I can't say what color the baby is going to be, whether it will be a big Injun or a little nigger." or a little nigger.'

And as to Congress.

And Mr. Small says he wants to see the man who is to run for congress from this district before he will say what he is going district before he will say what he is going to do about it.

Being asked if he would give up his pulpit and platform work for a seat in congress, he replied that if he were in congress he would serve his constituents and not go to horse races or national conventions, or even come home to look after his fences. He has a theory that fences will take care of themselves if the congressmen will stay in Washington and work.

deposited with the Atlantic Trust Company, of New York, under the plan. These bonds are held in Savannah, London, New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Savannah's bond-holders, who have $500,000, are inclined to go into the plan, considering it the best thing in sight. As stated in The Constitution a few days ago, the plan is based on an Issue of $7,500,000 of bonds, $3,500,000 of preferred stock and not more than $8,000,000 of common stock. Of the bond issue, $3,500,000 are to be first mortgage and $4,000,000 general mortgage. organization committee represents the holders of the outstanding consolidated mortgage bonds, amounting to $3,821,000, and these are the real owners of the railroad, subject to liabilities amounting to $1,389, 630. It is proposed that the new company be called the Marietta Company and that of the first mortgage bonds $500,000 be retained for the contemplated extension to Atlanta and $400,000 for such contractor liens as may be established. The rest of the $2,600,000 would be reserved to take up $389,000 of the old Marietta and North Georgia bonds and to pay $50,000 of matured coupons in July, to settle the receiver's indebtedness of $246,000 for rolling stock and $950,000 for betterments made and to be made, including the bridge at Knoxville. The minimum selling price fixed for the new first is $65. The $4,000,000 of new general mortgage bonds are to be exchanged for the outstanding consolidated bonds, largely held in Savannah. These amount to $3,821,000 and dollar for dollar will be given in the exchange, with a non-accumulative income bond for the past due coupons. These income bonds are to be paid as soon as the road earns enough over its other fixed charges.

The first mortgage bondholders are to control the road under this plan. They are guaranteed fifty-year gold bonds at 5 per cent, giving them the first lien. The common stock is to be deposited with the trust company to be voted by the committee in charge until one year's interest on the first mortgage bonds is paid. er's indebtedness of $246,000 for rolling

I learn that in some places there has been no rain in seven or eight weeks. Cotton does not look so well. Cool nights, east winds and lies are the probable cense. The farmers look so well. Cool nights, east winds and lice are the probable cause. The farmers have been quite busy for the last ten days saving their oats, which have been better than for years past, and will be a great auxiliary in helping out the short supply of corn. From present indications, the farmers are in a better condition than they were at this time last year. There are not so many running on the ruinous credit prices as there were last year. NOTICE.

THE EDITOR SPEAKS, TO BUILD FURNACES

EDITOR M'COOK'S PLAIN STATEMENT.

He Reviews His Course Towards Judge Atkinson, and Replies to a Cele-brated Curse.

Brunswick, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Editor McK. F. McCook, of The Brunswick Times, is out in a personal editorial explanation of the differences between himself and Judge Atkinson. The provocation for this editorial letter comes from a denial of the accuracy of the report of Judge Atkinson's speech, delivercomes from a denial of the accuracy of the report of Judge Atkinson's speech, delivered in Brunswick May 13th, in so far as it related to the curse which Judge Atkinson was alleged to have pronounced upon Mr. McCook, this denial appearing in The Way-cross Headlight of Wednesday. The denial, as published in The Waycross Headlight is required. Here it is in part:

nial, as published in The Waycross Headlight, is peculiar. Here it is in part:

Judge Atkinson was in the city several days ago, and said that he did not use the exact language attributed to him at the courthouse in Brunswick in regard to Editor McCook,
As near as we can quote him from memory,
here is the substance of what he said:

"Ancient divine history produces but one Judas who betrayed his Savior, and one Peter who denied Him, but it remains for the present day to furnish a McCook who not only denies his Savior, but is a traitor to his friend. If there is a just God—and there is—remorse must torture his conscience until he suffers while living the torments of the damned."

anmed."

This is not the language flaunted in the face of the people by the enemies of Judge Atkinson, and there is nothing in it that cannot be proven. We blame Judge Atkinson for referring to Mr. McCook at all, but with the language quoted above, which is correct in substance, no censure can attach to Judge Atkinson.

not be proven. We blame Judge Atkinson for referring to Mr. McCook at all, but with the language quoted above, which is correct in substance, no censure can attach to Judge Atkinson.

Replying to the above, Editor McCook reviews the differences that have existed and still exist between his paper, The Times, and Judge Atkinson, and says:

Judge Atkinson had no excuse for singling me out for any personal attack. I had not been personal in any criticism of him. I had spoken of him with respect as a man, as a citizen and as a jurist, as will be shown by the files of The Times. In forsaking him. I had done no more than others had done who had promised to support him. Why did he not pour upon them his bitter, blasphemous and vindictive wrath?

The editor of The Headlight takes occasion to refer to my theological ophilons, or rather, what he alleges them to be. What right has he to meddle with the opinions of another? Has he authority to prescribe for me a creed? May I not think for myself?

Such reports as he publishes have been industriously circulated here. The most outrageous calumnies about my theological opinions have gone abroad. I have letters from all parts of the state from those who seemed to think I had fallen into rankest atheism and was engaged in the work of peddling such stuff among the people. At whose instigation this wicked and hellish persecution has been going on I cannot say.

I cannot make the editor of The Headlight my father confessor. I should not trust to his discrimination to understand the thoughts and beliefs I have. This much I will say and he can construe it as he pleases: If he has a belief in the divine manhood of Jesus as satisfactory to him as mine is to me, he should be full of comfort.

I am not called upon to do so, but I frankly confess that I have committed faults and yielded to frailites. I do not excuse myself, nor do I ask others to excuse me. I would not even offset my own follies by mentioning the follies of others. Others would not have falled, perhaps, where I have. Othe democratic convention to nominate candidates for the legislature met today at the courthonse and nominated Hon. F. A. Singuefield and Mr. William Little. After the nomination both gentlemen were brought in by a committee amid great enthusiasm and accepted the nominations, expressing their thanks in well chosen words. The nominations gave general satisfaction, as both gentlemen are large planters and have accepted the honor at large personal sacrifices. They are both stanch democrats and will make good representatives. There is no doubt of their being elected, notwithstanding that the third partyites propose holding a convention or having a nomination of their own early in July. Governor Northen and Colonel J. C. C. Black will speak here on the 18th instant, to an appreciative crowd of democrats.

The Millen Ice Factory. The Millen Ice Factory.

Millen, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—The members of the Millen Artesian Ice Company held a meeting in the Millen hotel for the purpose of electing a board of directors and president, etc. The following named gentlemen were elected: R. G. Daniel, president; Crawford Parker, vice president; H. A. Lester, treasurer; George H. Reid, secretary.

The following composed the board of directors: George R. Lombard, George Gabutt, P. L. Corker, F. L. Davis, P. L. Johnston, T. W. Palmer, P. V. Daniel and J. P. Applewhite. The factory is turning out some of the prettiest ice ever made. The company gets orders for all made.

Rutledge, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—This evening about 3 o'clock a very angry cloud came up and was filled with much thunder and lightning. Mrs., J. F. Studdard, one of our highly accomplished ladies, living about one mile from this place, was severely shocked by lightning while in the dining room. The ball struck about the center of the house and went down the chimney and threw a rock striking her on the arm and inflicting a very severe wound. Two others were slightly shocked by the same stroke, Elberton, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Mr. Seaborn Brawner, of this county, is in a very critical state. His mind is very sadly affected and Saturday and Sunday he was almost uncontrollable. With Judge Atkinson's Anathema for a For the Reduction of Iron Pyrites for Sulphuric Acid.

THE FURMAN FARM IMPROVEMENT CO.

ment of the Pyrites Industry-The West Indian Trade.

The pyrites industry is growing rapidly. It has only been about six months since The Constitution showed how a million dollars could be saved to Georgia by making sulphuric acid from our own ores instead of sending to Sicily for brimstone and paying the exhabitant price demanded by the Sicil. the exhorbitant price demanded by the Sicilin sulphur monopoly.

Not long ago the opening of the acid works of the Coweta Fertilizer Company was announced in these columns. Now the Furman Farm Improvement Company, whose president's office is just across the street from The Constitution, announces that it will build furnaces immediately for the reduction of pyrites ore. This company does an immense business in fertilizers and its own trade will require an immense tonnage of sulphuric acid, and will create a market for a great deal of ore. It is hardly possible to realize the rapidity with which the new pyrites industry is growing. With the prospective extension of our fertilizer trade to the West Indies under the reciprocity treaties, the demand for sulphuric acid and phosphates will be larger than all the Georgia factories can supply.

The The annual meeting of the Furman Farm Improvement Company was an interesting one. The proceedings are here briefly outlined.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Furman Farm Improvement Company was held on Thursday, June 2d, in their offices in Adair & Bro.'s building. There was a full representation of shares present. The old board of directors was unanimously reelected for the ensuing year. It is composed of the following gentlemen: A. D. Adair, G. B. Adair, E. W. Marsh, R. M. Farrar and George W. McCarty.

After hearing the reports of the president and secretary, which, under the circumstances were satisfactory, the stockholders decided to put in new furnaces at once for burning pyrites ore. The step was decided on because of the excessive high price of sulphur. It was thought that at the preston could be saved by burning pyrites instead of sulphur. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. A. D. Adair was re-elected president and Mr. G. W. McCarty secretary and superintendent.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Strange Recovery of a Cripple, Who Was a Helpless Invalid.

Belpless Invalid.

Oglethorpe, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—A very extraordinary occurrence was reported here by Mr. Boze Kitchens, who lives a few miles below Oglethorpe, on Filint river. About four years ago his little son, Seaborn, then about eleven years old, was stricken with paralysis, caused from getting overheated while picking cotton. Since that time his mind has been a perfect blank; he hardly had intelligence enough to recognize the members of the family, and did not know a letter in the book, though he could read before. His legs became drawn back until his feet touched the small of his back, and in that position have remained as rigid as bars of iron. Although a poor man, Mr. Kitchens secured for his little son the best medical skill in the land, and spent hundreds of dollars; in fact, all that he could spare from the support of his family, in trying to have him restored. Binally the doctors gave up the case as incurable, and for a long time nothing has been done for the little fellow, and his parents had begun to try to reconcile themselves to a hopeless cripple and non compos ments.

Nominated for the Legislature.

Louisville, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—The democratic convention to nominate candidates for the legislature met today at the tinued for a day or two, and during the time an enormous amount of bile passed from him. Friday his legs straightened out, and his long lost mental faculties returned to him. He talked intelligently of incidents that transpired before his affliction, remembered his letters and could read as well as before he lost his mind. He recognized the neighbors and asked about his little playmates, some of whom had died, and not one of whom he has ever recognized during the past four years.

Since consciousness has returned to him he does not know his stepmother, who has nursed him all this time, but remembered all about his own mother, who died just before his affliction. He said to his father Friday night: "All that rotten part of my brain has run out, and I will soon be all right." He complains of pain now, but never appeared to be conscious of the slightest pain before his reason returned. This change has been brought about by the working of nature, entirely unaided by science, and is certainly a very peculiar case.

Mr. Kitchens seems perfectly elated over science, and is certainly a very peculiar case.

Mr. Kitchens seems perfectly elated over the return of consciousness. He says he would not take hundreds of dollars, as poor as he is, for the happiness it has afforded him to again hear words of sense and reason from the little lips that have been silent so long, and to see those little eyes beam once more with intelligence, even though they should close in death the next day.

day. A bright smile wreathed the face of the happy father, and great teardrops gathered in his eyes as he related the occurrence.

A GRIM REQUEST.

A Savannah Painter Who Wants a Crimi-nal's Head.

A Savannah Painter Who Wants a Criminal's Head.

Savannah, Ga., June 3.—(Special.)—Mr. Ben Cole, a young painter of Savannah, wants the head of Gus Williams, the convicted murderer of August Meyer, who has been sentenced to die on July 22d. He is now taking steps to secure the head of the criminal, but as yet has not succeeded in doing so. This morning he was making inquiries of a well-known detective as to the best means of proceeding to secure the head of Williams.

In all probability when Williams is executed his body will be turned over to the state medical college for dissection. In fact, it has been said that he will will that this be done. Williams has many redeeming traits. While he knows that his killing of Mr. August Meyer was a most atrocious act, and that he is guilty of the crime of which he has been convicted, he is perfectly willing to aid science and scientific inquiry. He is willing that his body be turned over to the medical college at Atlanta.

If Mr. Cole wants the head very badly he must go to the Atlanta Medical college to secure it. It may be interesting to know why Mr. Cole wishes the head of the criminal. Mr. Cole has made a study of not only the heads of criminals, but of all lierature bearing on the phrenology of wrong-doers. He is convinced that Williams has been guilty of other murders, and wishes to convince himself, by an accurate examination of the cranium of the criminal, whether this is positively so or not. Mr. Cole is in earnest about the matter, and will use all legitimate means to secure Williams's head.
